TORNADO DAMAGE HEAVY IN COUNTY

THIS WAS A HOUSE — An unidentified man helps clear up the debris that was once a house belonging to Robert Stout. It was the hardest hit of the many homes in the area damaged by the storm. The house was demolished and every member of the family was seriously injured.

DISASTER STRUCK — Every member of the family of Robert Stout was injured when tornado winds ripped the home from its foundation and hurled it and its contents across the highway into a nearby field. All that can be seen at the homesite is the basement.

Loss Estimated In 'Thousands'; 17 Are Injured

By STEVE JONES

A tornado swept through Pickaway County shortly after midnight, leaving a wake of devastation, destruction and injury.

The wind of tornadic force touched down just west of Route 104 along Route 316. It destroyed houses, barns, utility lines and virtually everything in its path.

The early reports listed at least 17 injured, some seriously. No fatalities were recorded.

Winds reached a velocity of 130 miles per hour in the center of the storm, according to a report received by Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

foundation. The structure was carried across the road into a field.

Robert Stout, the father, is in serious condition in Mercy Hospital.

Mrs. Etha Mae Wolford, executive secretary for the Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross, announced today that persons suffering disaster caused emergencies that cannot be coped with should register at her office. She said families suffering losses in last night's tornado should call GR 4-5736 or GR 4-3447 to register for Red Cross assistance.

NO ONE was willing to attempt to estimate the monetary extent of damage. However it will undoubtedly mount into "tens of thousands of dollars."

The hardest hit community was at Routes 316 and 104. Practically every building in the vicinity was damaged to some extent.

A trailer park, less than a quarter of a mile north of the intersection, was out of the narrow path of the destructive winds. There was no damage there.

One entire family of seven was hospitalized when the trailer type home in which they lived was swept from its foundation. He was found lying nearly 60 feet from the foundation of the home.

One of the Stout's daughters was in a ditch across the road, more than 100 feet from the foundation. Mrs. Stout and two other children were found nearer the home.

THE FLOOR of the structure, made of heavy steel girders and estimated to weigh nearly two tons, was carried more than 200 feet by the force of the winds.

BREAKFAST? — An electric range was all that escaped damage at the trailer home of Darwin Hall who lives at Routes 316 and 104. The walls of the trailer were found nearly 200 yards away, rolled into an unrecognizable hunk of metal. All other contents were heavily damaged. Hall was not home when the tornado struck.

Toledo Area Hardest Hit By Tornadoes

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Tornadoes sliced a deadly swath across northern Ohio Sunday night, killing 54 persons and injuring more than 330.

The storm's Sunday punch hit hardest at metropolitan Toledo. It flattened everything in the village of Pittsfield except a 12-foot high war monument in front of the courthouse.

The Highway Patrol listed 20 dead in Toledo and said more bodies might still be in the rubble. The Red Cross counted 14 deaths; other estimates ranged to 22. The Red Cross reported 178 injured, 90 admitted to seven hospitals.

Seventeen were killed in Lorain County, near Cleveland. Seven perished in Pittsfield, a village of 50 residents.

Other twisters slashed a dozen communities from Van Wert County on the Indiana border to the Cleveland suburbs.

Gov. James A. Rhodes declared the tornado belt a disaster area and called out the National Guard to help with the cleanup. He ordered all state departments to provide every possible aid.

Rhodes flew to Toledo to inspect damage there, then planned to tour other devastated areas.

The Toledo twister plucked a bus from an expressway and smashed houses in two subdivisions, just at bedtime.

Ralph F. Hoffman Jr., Circleville, pleaded not guilty to a grand larceny charge. He is under a $500 bond.

Clyde Eugene Brigner, indicted for failure to provide for a pregnant woman, also entered a plea of innocent.

Two pleas of guilty were entered Saturday. Terry Lynn Dresbach, Whisler, admitted throwing rocks at a moving train and was handed a suspended fine of $100 and was ordered to make restitution.

Robert Lee Brown pleaded guilty to a non-support charge. Judge Ammer delayed sentencing temporarily. Sentence is expected to be pronounced this week.

CASES continued included Lawrence E. Spencer, indicted for attempted breaking and entering; Earl Leroy Wooten, non-support; Oliver L. Forsythe, Atlanta, assault on minor children; Charles G. Hammon, Route 2, Ashville, attempted fraud and making a false report to police; Eugene Hill, attempted fraud; Marshall D. Wilson, second-degree manslaughter.

Two "secret" cases were also continued. They involved two men indicted for selling unregistered securities and selling securities without a license.

Two Major Utility Firms Face Giant Repair Tasks

Two of the county's three major utilities were confronted with man-sized tasks today following last night's devastating storm.

Facing giant repair jobs are the General Telephone Co. and South Central Electric. The Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. was only slightly affected.

The two firms hard hit have engaged all available personnel, in an effort to restore service.

Most of the utility damage was inflicted in the tornado impact area that cut a swath from Routes 316 and 104 on eastward along the northern fringes of South Bloomfield and Ashville.

GENERAL Telephone reported about 500 customers were affected by the storm's destructive force. The north and west portions of the exchange were hardest hit, according to local manager Robert Keatley, who listed damage at "several thousands of dollars."

Keatley said several poles were snapped at ground level "as if they were matchsticks." Damage of equal proportions was inflicted on wiring.

The local manager said every effort is being made to restore service as soon as possible. The repairs are being made in coordination with the power companies.

Extra phone company crews were brought in starting at about 2 a. m. All toll board positions at the Circleville office were filled today by operators in an effort to off set the lack of regular communications just north of here.

South Central Electric was unable to give an estimate of damages and loss of service at noon today. However, Pete Noble of the local office said "everything from Route 104 and 316 east through Ashville and to Route 33 was out."

Noble said most of the area is served by the Canal Winchester office. Line crews and other-workers have been "on the job" since early morning and will work continuously until all service is restored, he said.

WIRES, poles and transformers were all affected by the storm, Noble added.

E. G. Parsons, manager for the Circleville office of Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric, noted that his company was "very fortunate." The local area serviced by C & SO was not affected, he said.

One main "feeder line" north of South Bloomfield was put out of service, but the area is being serviced by another line, Parsons said.

Easter Sequel Tells Trials of Christianity

Easter includes a prelude to a climax and a sequel. Attention at this season generally fixes on the opening phase the Passion and the Crucifixion and the culminating event the Resurrection. But not so much consideration is given to the subsequent events.

In a five-part series George W. Cornell long-time Associated Press religion writer tells what happened in that epilogue of Easter.

To the followers of Jesus who had anticipated a brilliant temporal triumph for Him the Crucifixion seemed a shattering failure. The were left wondering and dumbfounded.

The repercussions have continued ever since beginning with the trials, dangers and deaths of those original believers and their fearless assurance that genuine life is so grand and so mighty they were willing to die for it.

Cornell writes about these early Christians basing his work on the Scriptures with supplemental atmosphere taken from early church history.

Once Around Roundtown

THE PICKAWAY County Sheriff's Department experienced one of its busiest weekends ever.

Included in the activities were a number of accidents, a fight in Tarlton, a "dog shooting," the accidental death of a 2-month old child, the arrest of a man wanted by Fairfield and Hocking counties and finally last night's tornado.

All this was in addition to routine duties performed by the department.

Witnesses Recall Tornado's Swift, Severe Onslaught

Ohio State Highway Patrolman P. J. Ranck was patrolling the area when the tornado struck.

"I was in South Bloomfield when it hit," Ranck said. "I was really scared."

"Trash and debris started hitting the car. Huge sections of metal roofing bounced across the road, trailing sparks," he continued.

"I started south, but traffic was stopped and nobody was moving. Within 2 to 4 minutes the worst of the winds had passed and I was able to get moving again."

PATROLMAN Ranck estimated it took the storm 10 to 15 minutes to traverse the county.

The force of the winds lessened as the storm went westward into Fairfield County, according to Ranck.

"The walls just started going in and out," Mrs. Kenneth Hardbarger said, describing the storm.

"I threw myself over the children to protect them," she continued.

The walls of the Hardbarger bedrooms where the family was sleeping "literally exploded outward." Fortunately no one was seriously injured.

Robert Stout, seriously injured in the storm, received a lifetime disabling injury several years ago when he fell from a grain silo at Ashville.

HIS ENTIRE family suffered serious injuries last night when their trailer home was swept from its foundation.

Deputy Sheriff John Wolford who was in the area when the wind struck, said his driving vision was almost diminished. He reported he was able to see to drive by the frequent lightning flashes.

Storm Rundown

All of Pickaway County felt the effects of last night's violent storm. Many persons were out early today looking for garbage cans, trash barrels and countless other objects that were not bolted down prior to the onslaught.

Many, many persons stayed awake throughout most of the night, afraid to close their eyes. Others who tried sleep were suddenly awakened by a blizzing lightning-thunder storm that swept across the county before 1 a. m.

One member of The Herald staff underwent midnight pains to reinforce and brace a recently installed television antenna. The aerial was intact this morning.

Other than the terrific amount of debris in the Ashville - Bloomfield area, few traces of the tornado remained today. A brisk wind was still blowing this morning, but skies were generally clear with lots of sunshine.

A Madison County Deputy Sheriff, enroute to assist local agencies in last night's tornado disaster, found himself "helpless for a while." The deputy came across broken power lines on the highway and had to remain stationary until he received word that the power had been disconnected. He then continued on his way to offer assistance.

Accused Slayer Pleads 'Insanity'

Eight of 17 persons indicted by the April term of Pickaway County Grand Jury entered pleas to indictments during Saturday's arraignment session.

Cleo V. Keaton, 27, Dayton, entered pleas of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity to an indictment charging him with the Mar. 23, first degree murder of Maurice Francis, Williamsport.

Keaton, represented by Dayton attorney Emanuel Nadlin, was committed to Lima State Hospital by Judge William Ammer for a minimum 30 - day observation period. Trial proceedings will not be scheduled until completion of reports by psychiatrists at the hospital.

Five others entered pleas of innocent during the Saturday morning session. They included Tom Francis, 153 Hayward Ave., who was indicted for obtaining money under false pretenses. His trial date has been set for May 17.

JOHN BELVINS, Circleville, also indicted for obtaining money under false pretenses, has been scheduled for trial on May 10. Both men are under $5,000 bond.

The Toledo twister plucked a bus from an expressway and smashed houses in two subdivisions, just at bedtime. "The place was leveled," said Thomas Acres, who watched from across the superhighway as the funnel dipped into the housing area.

It hit just 15 minutes before a severe weather alert was to expire.

"All of a sudden everybody was running for cover and then the roof just peeled off," said Nathan Seldinger, a real estate man who was in a bowling alley when the storm struck.

"The whole thing lasted only a few seconds."

The tornado-spawning storm swirled across the state at 40 miles an hour, hurling hail and heavy rain ahead of the twisters.

Electricity and telephones were knocked out. Dozens were left homeless. Hundreds of houses and buildings were demolished.

All of Van Wert County was without power and the Highway Patrol said it might be two days before electricity was restored.

Twelve were killed and about 40 injured in the Cairo-Bluffton area near Lima. Four died in a rural area near Delaware and three in a farm region near Fort Loraine.

Besides the Pittsfield deaths, Lorain County listed four dead at LaGrange, two at Columbia Station and two at Grafton. One death each was reported near Tiffin, at Willshire and in the Cleveland suburb of Strongsville.

About 40 injuries were reported in the Fort Loraine area, another 10 near Delaware and (Continued on Page Two)

With Radcliff at the time of the apprehension was Ross County Deputy Sheriff Carl Reisinger, Pickaway Deputies Warren Straley, Dale Wolfe,

Homer Adams and Charles Jones.

Hedges was armed with a nine shot 25 caliber automatic pistol when arrested. The weapon was identified as being stolen from Fairfield County in one of the burglaries in that area.

Also apprehended at the time was Patricia Hedges, his wife.

The couple was questioned concerning a series of complaints in Pickaway County by local sheriff's authorities.

However, Radcliff said the pair would be turned over to Fairfield County for further questioning.

Indiana's 110 Deaths Lead Storm Casualty List

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The nation counted 210 killed in a Palm Sunday tornado bombardment of six Midwest states.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said 37 twisters injured thousands. Property damage estimates came to several millions.

While search of the debris from shattered homes continued today in some sections, Indiana counted 110 dead, Ohio 54, Michigan 36, Illinois 7 and Wisconsin 3. Iowa reported extensive damage but no deaths.

The rampant weather front spurt the twisters through the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley diminished today as it spread into the East and Southeast.

Sunday's storms were deadlier than those the night of March 21-22, 1952 when twisters killed 208 in Arkansas, Missouri and Tennessee. The worst single day in terms of tornado death toll was in 1925 when a March 18 barrage of twisters took 689 lives in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

Indiana authorities had no estimate of the number of injured or the cost in property damage. There were three twister paths across the state's northern and central area. Powder and communication failures hampered any assessment. Some highways were blocked by wreckage.

At least 23 towns had fatalities. Duniap, southeast of Elkhart, had many dead in a crushed and scattered trailer home community. One hundred houses were destroyed in Greentown near Kokomo. One hundred cottages were flattened at Kootz Lake northwest of Knox. Lapaz and Wyatt near South Bend were lashed. Michigan's southern section was ripped from Grand Rapids to Hillsdale County. Deaths occurred in widely scattered places. Five deaths and 100 injured were reported in the Grand Rapids area. Across the state near Hillsdale, five were killed. Nine died at Manitou Beach in Lenawee County, and two at Hemlock Lake. There were other deaths.

National Guard units were called to guard property, establish communications and help the homeless in Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana.

Illinois counted seven dead in twisters which hit northwest of Chicago. Five were killed in Crystal Lake, one at Island Lake, and one in Chicago where flying debris in high winds did extensive damage. Damage was estimated at 76 million.

In Wisconsin, three motorists were killed on a highway near Watertown when tornadoic wind upset their cars. Monroe, in southern Wisconsin, was the scene of extensive damage, but no lives were lost there.

Iowa, also was hit as the tornado rash began its sweep eastward, but only one severe injury was reported. Power disruptions affected many communities.

The windstorms came hours after President Johnson declared 39 Minnesota counties a disaster area in the wake of the state's worst flood in history. Some 20,000 persons fled their homes before spreading flood waters from rivers throughout the state.

The Indiana toll was the worst disaster in the state's history.

In 1963 an explosion at an ice show in Indianapolis took 74 lives.

17 more at Ashville, south of Columbus.

Three members of one family were killed at Pittsfield. Two young boys were hurled from their parents' car into a creek and drowned near Bluffton.

Three of the Toledo dead were aboard a bus bound for Detroit. It was toppled from the expressway, as were four tractor-trailer trucks. Another man died when the car in which he was riding was flung end over end off a highway.

One witness said the twister disintegrated a garage "as though it was being bombed."

Another twister derailed 53 cars of a freight train south of Lima. The Findlay area to the north escaped tornadoes, but schools and most industries were closed because of power difficulties.

A massive power failure closed down Fremont.

South of Columbus, Teays Valley High School closed because its roof was damaged by the Ashville storm.

Thomas Acres, who lives across the expressway from the devastated Toledo housing addition, said the lights went out at 9:35 as a tremendous hailstorm hit. He went to the expressway and looked across as the tornado's funnel dipped into houses.

"They all just seemed to fall down," Acres said. "The place was leveled. And most of those homes were brick ones."

The twister tore on into place, on a peninsula between the Ottawa River and Lake Erie and jutting into Michigan. At least 57 houses and a tavern were demolished in the two areas.

Many who escaped with minor injuries recalled the storm struck just as families were preparing to go to bed for the night.

Isadore Perlmutter, 44, apparently was the first motorist to chance upon the wrecked bus. He said he saw someone bleeding and waving to him.

Perlmutter said he pulled the incoherent man who waved at him from the bus and it was not until then he realized the vehicle was a bus instead of a truck.

He said the man told him he had been waving at motorists for 20 minutes, but none had stopped to help. He said visibility was poor at the time.

He said passengers were moaning and calling for help and that by the time Michigan state police arrived several persons were lying on the median, where they apparently had crawled after being helped out by other motorists who had stopped.

Worst tornado in Ohio history struck in the Sandusky - Lorain area in 1924, killing 77.

According to U.S. Weather Bureau records, a twister slammed into Sandusky 41 years ago on June 28, then swept across Sandusky Bay and into Lorain.

Five of the men, all from the Ashland, Ky., area, were cited for intoxication, and were fined $25 and costs by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today. They were Kelsie Bishop, John Tussey, John Price, Russell Williams, Delmar Spriggs, Eugene Rucker, 33, Ashland, Ky., the driver of the car was charged with reckless operation. He was fined $25 and costs.

Baby Smothers In Williamsport

A 2-month-old girl was accidentally smothered to death in Williamsport, yesterday according to the Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

Shortly after noon, the Pickaway County Sheriff's department received a call from the Gordon Russells asking for a doctor. An ambulance was dispatched to the home where they found Brenda Marie Russell.

Woman Uninjured In Auto Mishap

A woman motorist escaped injury this morning when she lost control of her auto on N. Court St., near The Savings Bank.

Mrs. Aimee Landis, Route 1, told officers she was headed north and attempted to park her car in front of the bank when the mishap occurred.

A parking meter and a four-foot slab of white marble were damaged in the accident. The Landis auto went over the curb, knocked down the meter and came to a stop when it struck the front of the bank. The auto was also extensively damaged in the front end, officers said.

All available law enforcement officers and emergency vehicles were in the area searching for injured persons. Lockbourne Air Force Base assisted local law enforcement and emergency personnel.

The bulk of the damage was to the rural area just north of Route 752.

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said the area of the damage was patrolled by all available members of his department immediately after the storm.

RADCLIFF noted that officers stopped at every house in the area, looking for injured persons. The area was patrolled again at daylight as a double check was made.

A first aid station was set up at Ashville, and several persons were treated there. Mr. and Mrs. James Schouster were treated and released at Mercy Hospital, Columbus.

Early today, sightseers created a traffic problem in the area as personnel from the utility companies, the state and county highway departments and local residents began the job of cleaning up debris created by the storm.

The Villages of South Bloomfield and Ashville were just south of the immediate area of the high winds. Damage in both places was comparatively light.

The roof over the gymnasium at Teays Valley School was ripped off. Classes there were suspended. There was considerable water damage to the interior of the building, according to school personnel.

However, a spokesman at the school said classes are expected to resume tomorrow. Several windows in the cafeteria area were smashed, but little damage was reported otherwise.

THREE freight cars were derailed on a siding of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad near Ashville. A train, unable to stop, struck the derailed cars. Railroad traffic was tied up most of the morning. However, no one was injured.

Ambulance Driver Finds Father Dead

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—A part-time ambulance driver from Lorain made a mercy run to tornado-flattened Pittsfield village Sunday night—only to discover his father was among the known dead.

"Don didn't even know that his parents' home was in the path of the tornado until he reached the scene and someone told him his father was killed," said Robert Jackson.

Parole Violator Arrested By Pickaway County Sheriff

Pickaway County Sheriff Sunday morning arrested Raymond Hedges, an ex-convict and parole violator who is wanted by both Fairfield and Hocking County for questioning in a series of burglaries.

Radcliff said his department received a report Hedges was staying at his sister's home on the Clarksburg Frankfort Road in Ross County.

With Radcliff at the time of the apprehension was Ross County Deputy Sheriff Carl Reisinger, Pickaway Deputies Warren Straley, Dale Wolfe,

Homer Adams and Charles Jones.

Hedges was armed with a nine shot 25 caliber automatic pistol when arrested. The weapon was identified as being stolen from Fairfield County in one of the burglaries in that area.

Also apprehended at the time was Patricia Hedges, his wife. The couple was questioned concerning a series of complaints in Pickaway County by local sheriff's authorities.

However, Radcliff said the pair would be turned over to Fairfield County for further questioning.

Rash of Auto Accidents Investigated by Sheriff

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated a rash of automobile accidents during the weekend, three of which involved injuries.

Three persons were hurt in a two-car collision one-half mile west of Circleville on Route 22 at 2 p. m. yesterday.

Taken to Berger Hospital was Harry J. Cupp, 73, Circleville. He suffered a laceration of the chin, possible chest injuries and had several teeth knocked loose.

Referred to a doctor for treatment were Eleanor Levins, 24, and Richard Levins, 34, both of Huntsville, Ala.

A westbound auto driven by Carmelo Eugene Notto of Alabama started to pass a third car, apparently saw Cupp coming from the opposite direction and attempted to stop. However, he lost control and struck the car driven by Cupp, officers said.

Floyd Darst, 42, Route 1, was injured shortly after noon yesterday in a two-car accident on Route 56 three miles southeast of Circleville.

Darst is reported in "fair" condition today in University Hospital, Columbus. Authorities there report he sustained a fractured jaw and lacerations of the chin as well as a hip injury.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Homer Adams cited Darst, westbound, was passing a car driven by Larry Lee Holland, 17, Route 4.

He pulled back in too quickly, catching the bumper of Holland's car, spinning it around. Darst's car was demolished, while Holland's was damaged slightly.

Approximately 90 feet of fence and three posts were destroyed. Darst has been charged with reckless operation.

Elane Lykins, 36, injured 4:30 a. m. yesterday when the car in which she was a passenger spun out of control crashing through a fence.

The accident occurred on Route 159 southwest of Route 56.

Albert B. Lykins, 47, Lucasville, was the driver of the car. Mrs. Lykins was taken to Fairfield Hospital where she was treated for contusions and abrasions.

Lykins stated he was traveling south and it was raining very hard. His right wheels slipped off the edge of the road and the car spun out of control.

He was cited for driving at a speed excessive for road and weather conditions.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Homer Adams cited five occupants of one car involved in a wreck at 8:30 p. m. Saturday on the Route 23 five miles north of Circleville.

Five of the men, all from the Ashland, Ky., area, were cited for intoxication, and were fined $25 and costs by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today. They were Kelsie Bishop, John Tussey, John Price, Russell Williams, Delmar Spriggs, Eugene Rucker, 33, Ashland, Ky., the driver of the car was charged with reckless operation. He was fined $25 and costs.

What's on Jupiter?

The voice of Jove, or Jupiter, sometimes reached the ears of mortals in ancient days. Some didn't heed, some misunderstood, and some were deceived by counterfeits. But those who understood the true voice, and heeded, were wise. Or so old myths contend.

Today there are no gods enjoying the lusty capers on the slopes and crags of Mount Olympus. Not even Jupiter.

Jupiter is the fifth planet in the solar system, and by far the largest. According to one theory, it once was teamed with the sun as a double star. But it is no sun now. If a human were to visit it, he would have to be prepared for the rigors of a temperature at least 300 degrees colder than that outside his house this minute.

Astronomers do not know a great deal about the surface of Jupiter. What they see when they look through their telescopes is its strangely luminous atmosphere, made up of noxious vapors. What is underneath they can only surmise.

Brain Peepers

A congressional investigation recently revealed that some federal governmental agencies were using electronic listening devices to tune in on the private lives of individuals. Now, another investigating committee reports that federal agencies are prying into one of the last citadels of privacy, the human mind.

Applicants for jobs in the State, Labor and Defense departments, the Export-Import Bank and the Peace Corps must take written psychological tests to determine emotional and mental stability. The tests, however, exceed the limits of propriety.

They delve into a person's personal life, asking questions on sexual and religious beliefs, and in general transgress one's right to hold private personal beliefs on a variety of subjects. The State Department, which has changed its testing policy, virtually admitted that constitutional rights of individuals had not been properly protected.

No one can argue with the necessity of federal agencies acting to weed out security risks or of getting rid of individuals who are emotionally or mentally off-beam. But it is questionable if the Labor Department, whose connection with national security is dubious, should ask applicants a host of personal questions. It is more doubtful that Peace Corps applicants should be required to answer true or false to statements such as:

"I am very seldom troubled by constipation; I like to flirt; I never attend a sexy show if I can avoid it."

If the reliability and validity of such tests were not still a matter of controversy within the fields of psychiatry and psychology, there would remain the question of whether the federal government should be engaged in activity that constitutes an insidious and illegal prying into the human mind.

FATIGUED by a hard day at the office, a father found the racket being made by his two young sons too much for his jangled nerves, and sent them upstairs to their room after a severe scolding.

The next morning he found this note pinned to his bedroom door: "Be good to your children and they will be good to you. Yours truly, God."

McPherson had been employed by Doubleday's for less than a month when he demanded a hefty boost in salary. "You can't ask for more money so soon," protested Doubleday's prexy, John Sargent. Opportunity for Reds

By John Chamberlain

Do you want to know how Moscow's "Pravda," the official news organ of the Soviet Communist Party, is dealing these days with American attitudes toward the Vietnam crisis? The issue for April 2 is an astounding eye-opener, and it makes one wonder about the naivete of Oregon's off-beat Democratic Senator, Wayne Morse, in presenting the Soviets with opportunities for scoring a major propaganda triumph.

What has happened is that a number of letters to Senator Morse from his admirers and supporters have turned up in "Pravda" as grist for the Communist "peace" propaganda mill. The letters are from all over the United States. A man from San Francisco writes Morse that today the "supreme manifestation of patriotism is to be in opposition to the government." Someone from Detroit accuses Lyndon Johnson of following the policy of that "maniac," Goldwater, in Southeast Asia. An abject fellow from a town in Indiana writes that "if my country demands my service in this war, I would prefer imprisonment. I never thought that the day would come when I would have to say that I am ashamed of being an American. But that day has arrived."

"Pravda" has printed the names of Senator Morse's correspondents. I refrain from passing them along because I assume that most of the letter writers would, on due reflection be ashamed of the anti-American use to which their words have been put.

The Russian reporter who has used the letters to Senator Morse is S. Vishnevsky. That Mr. Vishnevsky is a partisan distorter of the worst order is proved by the use he has made, in the same "Pravda" issue of April 2, of a column written by my colleague, William S. White. In the particular column in question Mr. White poured scorn on the handful of professionally anti-American Americans who continually run down their country, calling it "ugly America," "guilty America" and so on. But Mr. Vishnevsky, ignoring the whole thrust and meaning of the White column, quoted selected bits from it to guilty nation.

True enough, Senator Morse did not hand the correspondence directly to the Russian reporter. The letters may be found in the Congressional Record. It is one thing to carry on a campaign against White House policy as part of a Great Debate over the issue of American interest in Southeast Asia, but isn't it something else again to make presumably private letters available for use by any body?

Can you imagine the embarrassment that would have been caused back in 1940 to patriotic members of the America First Committee if their letters to Congressmen had found their first new exploitation in Dr. Goebbels' press in Berlin? We may be sure that Senator Morse wanted his mail to make an impression on the White House, but S. Vishnevsky stresses the point that none of these letters have been published in local papers. He glories in having used them to score a clean propaganda beat.

The heading that "Pravda" uses over the Vishnevsky dispatch is a quotation from one of the letters, "I am ashamed of being an American." I am sure that many Americans, including Oregonians who voted for him, are ashamed of Senator Morse's naivete in permitting Russians to be misled about popular feeling in the United States. The polls indicate that a majority of Americans have backed Lyndon Johnson's policy of standing by our promises to the South Vietnamese. In helping to pass along to the Russian people the palpable lie that America as a whole is "ashamed" about honoring its commitments Senator Morse may be doing his own cause of peace a great disservice. For wars are most likely to come when great powers misread each other's minds.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What causes some people to faint? What can be done for them if professional help is not available?

Fainting is a temporary loss of consciousness resulting from an inadequate flow of blood to the brain.

There are many and varied reasons for fainting. The exact cause must be sought if there is a history of frequent fainting.

When someone has fainted, don't try to do too much. Let him lie flat, with the head lower than the rest of the body. Loosen tight ties, collars, belts and girdles. If possible, have him inhale smelling salts or a broken vial of aromatic ammonia.

Don't force him to swallow any liquids. Don't dash water on his face. The unconscious person should never be given alcohol to drink.

Reassurance is one of the most essential contributions that can be made before medical help arrives.

Are there any special symptoms that definitely indicate a condition of anemia?

The diagnosis of anemia, its type and severity, can be made only by a careful and detailed study of the blood under the microscope.

Too many people convince themselves that their vague, indefinite symptoms of fatigue, poor appetite, chilliness and loss of energy are proof that they have anemia.

A simple blood examination can relieve the anxious person of his fears of what usually is a nonexistent anemia.

What is Addison's disease?

This condition is a complex one caused by a deficiency of the hormone normally produced by the adrenal gland.

This hormone-producing gland lies close to each of the kidneys.

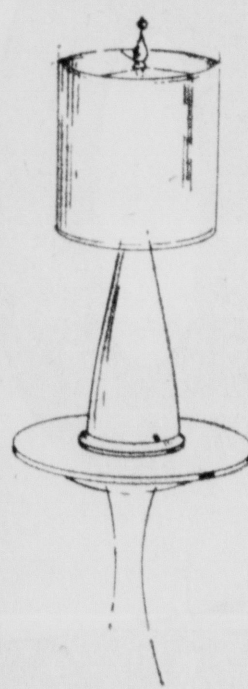

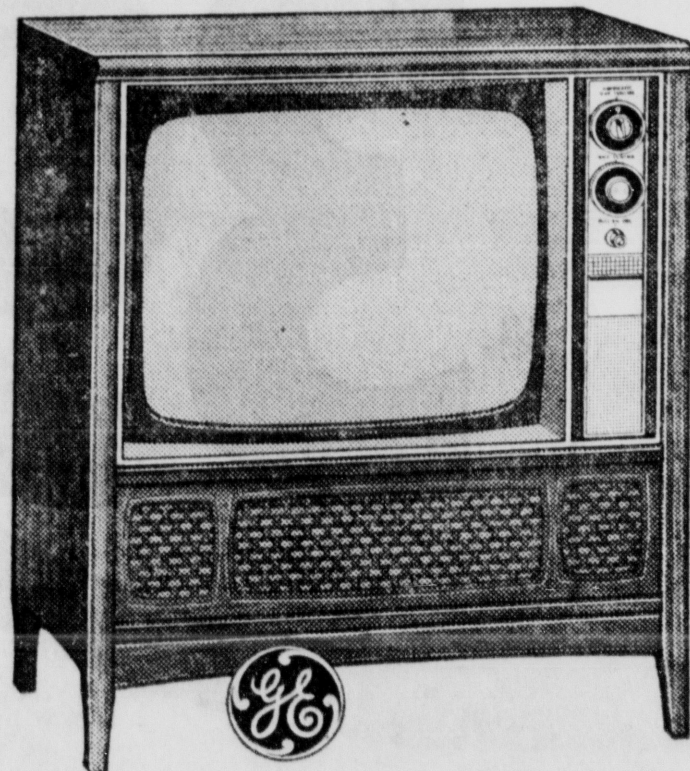

People with Addison's disease can now be kept in a state of good health because of the discovery and use of cortisone.

Can newborn infants carry the virus of German measles? Recently, it has come to light that newborn babies can harbor the virus of German measles if they had been infected with the disease while in the mother's womb.

It is said that these newborn can actually be carriers of German measles to adults.

Personnel in a hospital, including doctors and nurses, were reported to have contracted the disease directly from a newborn baby who carried the virus of German measles.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What causes some people to faint? What can be done for them if professional help is not available?

Fainting is a temporary loss of consciousness resulting from an inadequate flow of blood to the brain.

There are many and varied reasons for fainting. The exact cause must be sought if there is a history of frequent fainting. When someone has fainted, don't try to do too much. Let him lie flat, with the head lower than the rest of the body. Loosen tight ties, collars, belts and girdles. If possible, have him inhale smelling salts or a broken vial of aromatic ammonia.

Don't force him to swallow any liquids. Don't dash water on his face. The unconscious person should never be given alcohol to drink.

Reassurance is one of the most essential contributions that can be made before medical help arrives.

Are there any special symptoms that definitely indicate a condition of anemia?

The diagnosis of anemia, its type and severity, can be made only by a careful and detailed study of the blood under the microscope.

Too many people convince themselves that their vague in definite symptoms of fatigue, poor appetite, chilliness and loss of energy are proof that they have anemia.

A simple blood examination can relieve the anxious person of his fears of what usually is a nonexistent anemia.

TEAYS VALLEY SCHOOL — The roof covering the gymnasium at Teays Valley High School was ripped off by high winds last night. Damage was extensive to the gym roof and windows in the cafeteria area. Finland Shucking Communist Ties HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Finland is slowly working away from the influence of its own Communist party, and the Soviet Union just across the border. Finns are inviting Western capital to invest in their country in a way they could not have dreamed of 10 years ago.

Finland is much more independent than East European Communist states. Twice the Soviets tried to install a Communist regime in Finland under force of arms, and each time the Finns fought it off, bloodily.

Now the place has a democratic government, its people travel freely, and its papers are free to criticize the government, or for that matter the Soviet government and the Americans. They do all three, sometimes all on the same day.

Two hard facts remain. The Soviet government is next door, and the Communist party in Finland gets over 20 per cent of votes at every election. Yet the Finns seem little worried about either circumstance.

All non-Communist parties have accepted the idea that the country must be neutral — but prepared to fight off any effort to attack the Soviet Union by way of Finland. That reservation is written into her treaty made after she lost two successive times to the Soviets during the last war.

The Social Democrats are in the bad books of the Russians for they were in control during the winter war starting in 1939 and later on in the "continuing war" at the side of the Germans. So far, Soviet influence has been heavy enough to keep the Social Democrats from forming a government.

The Agrarians, while okay with the Russians, have limited city appeal.

Minnesotans Fight Flood

20,000 Homeless In Costly Deluge

ST. PAUL, Minn., (AP) — Three National Guard units were ordered into the battle today against Minnesota's costliest flood in history, a major disaster which has driven an estimated 20,000 persons from their homes.

The raging Minnesota River continued its relentless destruction. The Mississippi was swelling, and smaller rivers throughout the state spilled over their banks.

President Johnson declared 39 counties a disaster area Sunday and promised full federal help. The federal aid will apply only to public facilities such as roads, bridges and buildings.

The Red Cross estimated 20,000 Minnesotans homeless. About 30 highways were closed by high water.

Late Sunday night, Gov. Karl Rolvaag ordered an engineers battalion on duty at Hutchinson, about 50 miles west of Minneapolis. The Crow River flooded at Hutchinson, driving 50 families from their homes. About 13 residential blocks and part of the business district were inundated.

Some heavy equipment used last week at Mankato, where the Minnesota River flooded severely, was ordered into Hutchinson. The machines will be used to build dikes and repair highways.

An infantry regiment was put on duty at Crookston, in northwestern Minnesota. Guardsmen worked through the night, evacuating persons whose homes were being flooded by the Red Lake River.

Another infantry regiment, from Minneapolis, was ordered to security duty in the Chaska area, about 20 miles southwest of Minneapolis-St. Paul, at 6 a.m. today.

Sandbagging and diking along the Minnesota River was the main effort at Chaska as the city tried to keep its sewage plant and new courthouse safe. About half the town was under water, and ripples lapped at the eaves in some sections.

Rutgers garnered 865 points in judging while the Capital team scored 863. Harvard University was third with a score of 827.

There's a GAS Room Heater
Designed to Make It Comfortable!

Heating a new room usually presents a problem because the original heating system was not designed for it. But a safe Gas room heater can make the new room completely comfortable. Gas room heaters are thermostatically controlled, easy to install, and occupy almost no space in the room. Install them between studs, recess them in a wall...you can even put them in the attic! Many can be vented right through an outside wall, making a chimney unnecessary. Gas makes the big difference...costs less, too. You'll hardly notice the cost of heating the new room. Gas is unmatched for economy. For example, it costs less than half as much as electric heat. Ask your heating dealer or contractor for his recommendations...we're sure he'll recommend Gas.

NEW YORK (AP) — Aerospace developments highlighted business activities during the last week.

The first commercial satellite, Early Bird, was lofted into orbit for the government-sponsored, privately owned Communications Satellite Corp.

United Air Lines placed the biggest order for aircraft in history.

Early Bird, which has 200,000 stockholders rooting for its success, is designed as the vanguard of a satellite series that will establish a globe-girdling network for relay of voice, computer and television messages.

The possibilities of Comsat are enormous but the investors who poured $200 million into its stock have been warned that it may be several years before any profits are returned.

The first preliminary test of Early Bird's relaying ability was successful. It will be about six weeks before tests are completed.

United Air Lines placed a order for 144 jets which, if all options are taken up, will cost $750 million.

The jets, some to be purchased and some leased, would replace all of United's propeller-driven planes in five years.

Boeing Co. won the lion's share of the order with Douglas Aircraft Co. getting the balance.

Announcement of Boeing's victory set off cheers from its 15,000 workers in the Seattle and Renton, Wash., plants. The Seattle Chamber of Commerce called the order "a tremendous thing for the economy of the Pacific Northwest."

American Airlines announced it will purchase additional jets when it registered to issue $53 million in convertible debentures. How many would be bought was not disclosed.

Eastern Air Lines said it would buy four long-range jets from Douglas.

The American aircraft industry also stood to benefit from Britain's decision to buy more than $1 billion of U.S.-built F111

Automobile production during the week exceeded 200,000 for the fifth straight week as heavy demand kept up. Output was an estimated 212,500, compared with 207,920 the previous week and 175,064 a year ago.

For the year, production totaled 2,864,515 against 2,426,579 at this point last year.

Car dealers sold 813,444 in new U.S.-made cars in March, a record for any month. The total was 20 per cent ahead of a year earlier.

It was the first time that more than 800,000 domestic-made cars

For the first time in five weeks, steel production dipped during the week, but it still was near a record rate. The mills turned out 2,771,000 tons of steel, off 0.5 per cent from 2,785,000 the previous week.

The steel buying spree continued unabated as users tried to build up their inventories in case of a strike May 1.

The government reported sharp gains for manufacturing sales and profits in 1964. Every major industry reported increases over 1963. Sales rose 7 per cent and profits were up 19 per cent.

Suggestions For Better Home Lighting

Let's have some light on the subject — and the subject today is HOME!

A good recipe for bathroom lighting, for example, calls for fixtures that flank the mirror. They're placed about 30 inches apart.

If they were further apart, they wouldn't provide enough light. Were they closer together, they'd produce glare in the mirror. To top off the recipe, an overhead fixture is used.

Since most old - style baths have only one outlet, this arrangement would be difficult to put in if you were replacing old lights in a remodeling job. But putting in the necessary wiring would be easy if you were refinishing the wall with new wallpaper or tile.

Another good lighting formula is featured in a model kitchen.

A fluorescent bracket is used over wall cabinets. It's open at top and bottom so light reflects off the ceiling and also down over the face of cabinets, shedding light on the countertop.

This fixture is a manufactured product and can be added if cabinets have an open space above them.

Also employed under the cabinets is a bare fluorescent strip that's fronted by a dropped wooden strip to shield the eyes from glare of the bare fixture.

This is easily installed when remodeling with custom wood cabinets. Just have the front edge of the cabinets dropped a little to serve as a shield. The fixture lights work counters.

For over - all lighting, this model kitchen employs a "floating ceiling".

Two standard two-foot-square fixtures, which are usually hung flush with the ceiling are hung by one - foot - long stems. They have extra molding on their outer edges. The molding and wires hold up the open plastic grillwork panel suspended from the ceiling.

In a living room where a fireplace is the decorative highlight, attention is focused on it via reflector spots.

They're placed about 8 inches out from the fireplace and are mounted in the ceiling. They graze the brick wall with light and point up the texture and pattern of the brick.

A second row of lights, called wall - washers, flatten out the texture and give a smooth effect when they are turned on.

A wood - paneled wall in this room is lighted by fluorescent lights mounted in a cornice that's closed at top so that all light washes down over the wall surface.

For low - intensity over - all lighting, low - brightness fixtures are mounted in the beams of the ceiling.

Still another light touch — two pendant lights by the fireplace — serves as a purely decorative accent. Like jewelry, they give added color and gaiety to the room.

Lighting features such as these are found in many of the new homes. They might be considered for old homes, too, when remodeling is on the agenda.

Regional Meet Set

The regional meeting of the Garden Clubs of Ohio, Inc. will be held April 20 at the Columbus Country Club.

Marion Packard, landscape architect, will present an illustrated talk on garden design. Many state officers will be guests.

Circleville, Ohio

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

A Lawyer's a Lawyer!

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about your response to NO KEY IN MANHATTAN: The writer said that her employer advised her of her legal rights, and you replied, "Unless your employer is a lawyer, don't regard his word as 'law.'" I think your sarcasm was pointless. Am I to understand by your remark that only a lawyer should know anything about law? Every tenant worth his salt knows his rights and his landlord's obligations.

NO LAWYER
DEAR NO LAWYER: You are substantially correct; tenants and landlords should know their rights and obligations. But because the law is so complicated (and laws differ from state to state) the most reliable source of information in the event of a dispute is a competent lawyer. A man with a broken arm can't get a doctor fast enough. But a man with a broken contract resents shelling out for legal advice. I say, if one has a legal problem, hunt up a lawyer and pay him for what he knows.

DEAR ABBY: I hope this gets printed because my husband reads your column and I haven't the nerve to tell him this. We have been married for 15 years and have a lovely family. My husband was engaged to someone else before he met me, but she married another man. Son after, we met and fell in love. (At least, I fell in love with him.) Abby, I have a very strong feeling that my husband is still in love with this woman. (Or the memory of her.) He has shut me out of his life completely, and we have nothing in common any more. He isn't mean to me or anything like that. He gives me his whole pay check, but we aren't happy. I am 33, look 45 and feel 80. He hasn't seen this other woman in all these years, so in his mind she is still the same I have seen her recently, and she isn't. Do you think if I told him to go to see her it would help?

ALL-CRIED OUT
DEAR ALL CRIED OUT: I isn't worth the gamble. How do you know your husband is still "in love" with this other woman (or the memory of her)? The best index to a man's feeling is his actions. And if he's good to you, gives you his whole pay check and hasn't seen the old flame, perhaps you are trying to solve a problem that doesn't exist.

DEAR ABBY: I know you get lots of letters on how to make a marriage work, but I would like to tell you how my mother and father make theirs work. I am 14 years old and have two brothers and three sisters. Well, when my father comes home from work, the first thing he does is go in the room where my mother is and kiss her hello and say, "I love you, Honey." He still holds her on his lap once in a while, too.

My mother is 41 and my father is 47 and they both answer any questions any of us kids ask them. If we want to do something they don't want us to do, they won't let us. But they always tell us why.

Don't think my parents are not strict because they are. None of us kids get to do anything for recreation until all our work is done. I couldn't ask for better parents.

HAPPY IN O.C.

HICE IN HARRISONBURG, VA.: Thank you for paraphrasing the old saw, "If the shoe fits, wear it." I like yours better. "You have to wear the SHOE, lady—not the SIZE." I recommend it to more shoe salesmen whose women customers demand a smaller size than they should wear.

Suggestions For Better Home Lighting

Let's have some light on the subject — and the subject today is HOME!

A good recipe for bathroom lighting, for example, calls for fixtures that flank the mirror. They're placed about 30 inches apart.

If they were further apart, they wouldn't provide enough light. Were they closer together, they'd produce glare in the mirror. To top off the recipe, an overhead fixture is used.

Since most old - style baths have only one outlet, this arrangement would be difficult to put in if you were replacing only the lights in a remodeling job. But putting in the necessary wiring would be easy if you were refinishing the wall with new wallpaper or tile.

Another good lighting formula is featured in a model kitchen.

A fluorescent bracket is used over wall cabinets. It's open at top and bottom so light reflects off the ceiling and also down over the face of cabinets, shedding light on the countertop.

This fixture is a manufactured product and can be added if cabinets have an open space above them.

Also employed under the cabinets is a bare fluorescent strip that's fronted by a dropped wooden strip to shield the eyes from glare of the bare fixture. This is easily installed when remodeling with custom wood cabinets. Just have the front edge of the cabinets dropped a little to serve as a shield. The fixture lights work counters.

For over - all lighting, this model kitchen employs a "floating ceiling".

Two standard two-foot-square fixtures, which are usually hung flush with the ceiling are hung by one - foot - long stems. They have extra molding on their outer edges. The molding and wires hold up the open plastic grillwork panel suspended from the ceiling.

In a living room where a fireplace is the decorative highlight, attention is focused on it via reflector spots.

They're placed about 8 inches out from the fireplace and are mounted in the ceiling. They graze the brick wall with light and point up the texture and pattern of the brick.

A second row of lights, called wall - washers, flatten out the texture and give a smooth effect when they are turned on.

A wood - paneled wall in this room is lighted by fluorescent lights mounted in a cornice that's closed at top so that all light washes down over the wall surface.

For low - intensity over - all lighting, low - brightness fixtures are mounted in the beams of the ceiling.

Still another light touch — two pendant lights by the fireplace — serves as a purely decorative accent. Like jewelry, they give added color and gaiety to the room.

Lighting features such as these are found in many of the new homes. They might be considered for old homes, too, when remodeling is on the agenda.

Dear Abby:

A Lawyer's a Lawyer!

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about your response to NO KEY IN MANHATTAN. The writer said that her employer advised her of her legal rights, and you replied, "Unless your employer is a lawyer, don't regard his word as law." I think your sarcasm was pointless. Am I to understand by your remark that only a lawyer should know anything about law? Every tenant worth his salt knows his rights and his landlord's obligations.

NO LAWYER
DEAR NO LAWYER: You are substantially correct; tenants and landlords should know their rights and obligations. But because the law is so complicated (and laws differ from state to state) the most reliable source of information in the event of a dispute is a competent lawyer. A man with a broken arm can't get a doctor fast enough. But a man with a broken contract resents shelling out for legal advice. I say, if one has a legal problem, hunt up a lawyer and pay him for what he knows.

DEAR ABBY: I hope this gets printed because my husband reads your column and I haven't the nerve to tell him this. We have been married for 15 years and have a lovely family. My husband was engaged to someone else before he

Staying Power Of Lancione as Candidate Eyed

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The day after Ohio House Democrats tried unsuccessfully to boost the GOP balanced budget $165 million, their aroused floor leader, A. G. Lancione, announced for governor.

The 58-year-old Bellaire attorney's surprise declaration gave him the lead in the 1966 election sweepstakes but raised questions in both parties about his staying power.

Some felt he sought added publicity as a gubernatorial aspirant for the party's flagging legislative efforts and a drive against House Apportionment Issue No. 3 on next month's primary ballots.

But the mustachioed son of Italian immigrants, who has been state representative from Belmont County on the Ohio River since 1947, left no doubt in an interview of his desire to be governor regardless of admittedly formidable odds.

"I have been thinking about it for a long time," Lancione grinned. "Many legislators and party members have asked me to run. Friends at home have been calling me governor. I thought it was time to announce. Filing day is only nine months away."

Lancione asserted that the first to announce has "certain advantages."

"Maybe no one else will declare and give me a free ride," he added hopefully with tongue in cheek.

But the Democratic stable, dark horse an otherwise, makes it appear that the field could get crowded by the time filing deadline rolls around next Feb. 2.

Potential opponents mentioned for nomination include former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, Cleveland Mayor Ralph S. Locher, HEW Secretary and former Lakewood Mayor Frank P. Celeste, Congressman - at - large Robert E. Sweeney of Cleveland, 1st District Congressman John J. Gilligan of Cincinnati, state Chairman William L. Coleman, State Sen. Frank W. King of Toledo, former Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy of Cleveland and former Astronaut John Glenn.

But the dapper 5-foot-2 Lancione, who weighs in at 150 pounds, appeared undaunted. Lancione was born Feb. 12, 1906, in Cementon, Pa. His parents, who came to the United States in 1900, moved to Bellaire when he was an infant. Educated there, Lancione later graduated from Ohio State University and became an attorney in 1929.

He spent two years in military service during World War II and was in judge advocate school at Michigan University when the war ended.

Now in his 10th House term, Lancione is serving his second term as minority leader. He is married to the former June Davies Morford, a native of Martins Ferry. The Lanciones have three sons, John A., Cleveland attorney; Bernard, an Ohio State graduate now a senior in Franklin University Law School here, and Richard, a junior in Ohio State's Law College. All three are married.

Lancione's brother, Nelson, a Columbus attorney, formerly was national head of the Young Democratic Organization. Another brother, Peter, is a Bellaire physician and a third, John is district manager for a firm in Dallas, Tex.

"I think that as a candidate I will have more (news) coverage in my espousal of the Democratic processes and opposition to some of the governor's programs," Lancione observed. "He thinks a glass of tomato juice will solve all the problems in the world."

Lancione referred facetiously to widely publicized efforts of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes, regarded as already bidding for re-election, to stimulate Ohio's "first in the nation" tomato juice industry in his economic development program.

Lancione followed up his gubernatorial announcement with a challenge for Rhodes to debate him in a "roving town meeting" throughout Ohio when the legislature is not in session.

Rhodes ignored the invitation as he did DiSalle's persistent attempts to face to face debates in the 1962 campaign. An aide said Lancione should debate Democrats.

"I am willing to go anywhere in Ohio on weekends to debate the four constitutional issues with Gov. Rhodes," Lancione said. "The present governor has refused to answer legitimate questions and criticisms of his programs."

"We might start by going into the 57 counties that will lose their representative to the Ohio House if Issue 3 passes."

Lancione is the sponsor with other House Democrats of a proposal for each county to keep its representative through fractional voting in proportion to county population. Voting strength would range from .13 of a vote for Vinton County to 20.37 votes for populous Cuyahoga County under the proposal.

Issue No. 3 is the administrative-sponsored plan to change Ohio's constitution by combining smaller counties into districts with enough population to elect a representative in line with U.S. Supreme Court "one man, one vote" edict.

"After that we should discuss why the governor has abolished the local 4-H club program in 56 counties, which costs on $6,000 per county, but still the governor asks these same voters to approve another $290 million in bonds," Lancione continued.

"The governor has already made promises in various counties that add up to more than the total amount."

Japan, top fishing nation since 1948, has slipped to second place, after Peru, followed by China, the Soviet Union and the United States.

Views on Television — Radio

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — All over the country, Little Leaguers are practicing knocking dirt off their shoes and tugging at their caps in earnest imitation of their baseball heroes, whose every mannerism can be observed so closely on television.

And, it seems, older fans of televised sports are causing consternation on many of the nation's golf courses where players — particularly the duffers — often go through the leisurely preliminaries they have learned from the professional stars.

During the final rounds of the Masters tournament which CBS covered live Saturday and Sunday, the players actually spent comparatively little time picking up grass, repairing turf on the putting greens or surveying the line from various angles.

Perhaps the players had been urged to get on with the game. Earlier this season, there were many long periods as players walked up to inspect the fairway beyond a rise, thoughtfully gazed at a water hazard or cleaned up a putting surface.

"Mission to Malaya," ABC's Saturday night special in its "Daring American" series, was an inspiring, warmly human and exciting documentary about two young Peace Corps nurses on a jungle island in Malaya.

We saw nurse Rita Franzone ably administering to the sick during the last few days of her two-year assignment. The Marjorie Benning, her replacement — eager but a bit unsure of the language and the people — moved on her first day into a life-or-death situation.

The hour closeup of these two fine young women did more to explain the Peace Corps than a thousand inspirational lectures and pamphlets.

Recommended tonight: "FDR Remembers," CBS, 10-11 EST — a memoir of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt on the 20th anniversary of his death.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — In her autobiography, Eleanor Roosevelt said she once asked President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who died 20 years ago today, if he believed all he had been taught about religion.

Roosevelt, a warden of the Episcopal Church, replied: "I never really thought about it. I think it is just as well not to think about things like that too much."

And once, asked about his philosophy, he said: "Philosophy? I am a Christian and a Democrat — that's all." The two answers give an insight into the man and the mind.

He was not an intellectual. He could not think in abstract terms. He was not even a wide reader. His vision was limited and unorganized.

He didn't see the depression coming any more than President Herbert Hoover did. When it did come he had no plans for coping with it, as he showed by trying to outdo Hoover in promising economy.

But he had a far greater sense of action and of the power of the presidency than Hoover. And, because his mind was not frozen, he had brains enough to know he needed ideas. To help him, he called in intellectuals.

With their help and the needs of the country he patched the New Deal together, a bit at a time, and some of the bits were no good and had to be discarded.

Although he was president a little more than 12 years, the New Deal was finished in his first five, ending with enactment of the 40-hour work week in 1938. By then foreign troubles had become overpowering.

Roosevelt's foundation stone was his temperament. A warm man, with a concern for people, he was responsive to their needs and for the first time gave millions a sense of belonging. No wonder millions wept when he died.

His guiding light was a sense of social justice and, because he had no philosophy, he was flexible and could accept change.

He was aristocratic, which gave him a sense of ease, and rich enough to feel secure within himself. Out of both came his self-confidence. The flexibility and the self-confidence enabled him to welcome challenge.

These qualities, and his faith in his country, made him the greatest cement-mixer in American history. Inheriting a shattered country, his task as he saw it was to glue the pieces together, sometimes with fresh cement.

The New Deal has been called a revolution and it was, insofar as it broke with the callous American past by making, for the first time the government responsible for the general welfare.

But he was basically a conservative and so was his revolution which can be seen by looking no further than at those two other revolutions of his day, fascism and communism, which were then itching to take over the world.

Much that he did he played by ear, assuming it would be understood that if he didn't do the best right away he would when he could. Once, when he took a step which looked devious and he got a complaint, he said: "For heaven's sake, have some faith."

He looked upon the presidency primarily as a position of leadership, but was haunted by the feeling he had to prepare people for his next step, so much so that he once complained: "It's a terrible thing to look over your shoulder while you are trying to lead and find no one there."

As a result of this concern, he failed far too long to lead the country out of neutrality and isolation when the opposite might have changed the history of the world by discouraging Hitler and Japan.

He never quite whipped the depression — the war did that — but he got the country off its back in one of its most desperate hours, started it moving, gave it a new direction, provided inspired leadership in war, and launched the atomic age.

In 12 years he steered his country out of chaos and into leadership of the Western world. In 1956 Clinton Rossiter, in his book, "The American Presidency," said: "Roosevelt, I am sure, will never be ranked with Washington and Lincoln."

Six years later 75 historians were polled on all the presidents and put Roosevelt next after Lincoln and Washington as great ones.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The day after Ohio House Democrats tried unsuccessfully to boost the GOP balanced budget $165 million, their aroused floor leader, A. G. Lancione, announced for governor.

The 58-year-old Bellaire attorney's surprise declaration gave him the lead in the 1966 election sweepstakes but raised questions in both parties about his staying power.

Some felt he sought added publicity as a gubernatorial aspirant for the party's flagging legislative efforts and a drive against House Apportionment Issue No. 3 on next month's primary ballots.

But the mustachioed son of Italian immigrants, who has been state representative from Belmont County on the Ohio River since 1947, left no doubt in an interview of his desire to be governor regardless of admittedly formidable odds.

"I have been thinking about it for a long time," Lancione grinned. "Many legislators and party members have asked me to run. Friends at home have been calling me governor. I thought it was time to announce. Filing day is only nine months away."

Lancione asserted that the first to announce has "certain advantages."

"Maybe no one else will declare and give me a free ride," he added hopefully with tongue in cheek.

But the Democratic stable, dark horse as otherwise, makes it appear that the field could get crowded by the time filing deadline rolls around next Feb. 2.

Potential opponents mentioned for nomination include former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, Cleveland Mayor Ralph S. Locher, HEW Secretary and former mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze, Lakewood Mayor Frank P. Celeste, Congressman - at - large Robert E. Sweeney of Cleveland, 1st District Congressman John J. Gilligan of Cincinnati, state Chairman William L. Coleman, State Sen. Frank W. King of Toledo, former Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy of Cleveland and former Astronaut John Glenn.

But the dapper 5-foot-2 Lancione, who weighs in at 150 pounds, appeared undaunted.

Lancione was born Feb. 12, 1906, in Cementon, Pa. His parents, who came to the United States in 1900, moved to Bellaire when he was an infant. Educated there, Lancione later graduated from Ohio State University and became an attorney in 1929.

He spent two years in military service during World War II and was in judge advocate school at Michigan University when the war ended.

Now in his 10th House term, Lancione is serving his second term as minority leader.

He is married to the former June Davies Morford, a native of Martins Ferry. The Lanciones have three sons, John A., Cleveland attorney; Bernard, an Ohio State graduate now a senior in Franklin University Law School here, and Richard, a junior in Ohio State's Law College. All three are married.

Lancione's brother, Nelson, a Columbus attorney, formerly was national head of the Young Democratic Organization. Another brother, Peter, is a Bellaire physician and a third, John, is district manager for a firm in Dallas, Tex.

"I think that as a candidate I will have more (news) coverage in my espousal of the Democratic processes and opposition to some of the governor's programs," Lancione observed. "He thinks a glass of tomato juice will solve all the problems in the world."

Lancione referred facetiously to widely publicized efforts of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes, regarded as already bidding for re-election, to stimulate Ohio's "first in the nation" tomato juice industry in his economic development program.

Lancione followed up his gubernatorial announcement with a challenge for Rhodes to debate him in a "roving town meeting" throughout Ohio when the legislature is not in session.

Rhodes ignored the invitation as he did DiSalle's persistent attempts to face to face debates in the 1962 campaign. An aide said Lancione should debate Democrats.

"I am willing to go anywhere in Ohio on weekends to debate the four constitutional issues with Gov. Rhodes," Lancione said. "The present governor has refused to answer legitimate questions and criticisms of his programs."

"We might start by going into the 57 counties that will lose their representative to the Ohio House if Issue 3 passes."

Lancione is the sponsor with other House Democrats of a proposal for each county to keep its representative through fractional voting in proportion to county population. Voting strength would range from .13 of a vote for Vinton County to 20.37 votes for populous Cuyahoga County under the proposal.

Issue No. 3 is the administrative-sponsored plan to change Ohio's constitution by combining smaller counties into districts with enough population to elect a representative in line with U.S. Supreme Court "one man, one vote" edict.

"After that we should discuss why the governor has abolished the local 4-H club program in 56 counties, which costs on $6,000 per county, but still the governor asks these same voters to approve another $290 million in bonds," Lancione continued.

"The governor has already made promises in various counties that add up to more than the total amount."

Japan, top fishing nation since 1948, has slipped to second place, after Peru, followed by China, the Soviet Union and the United States.

THE WALLS HEAVED — The cement block home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hardbarger who live just north of Ashville, was heavily damaged by the storm. Mrs. Hardbarger said the "walls just heaved in and out when the storm hit." No one was seriously injured. The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — In her autobiography, Eleanor Roosevelt said she once asked President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who died 20 years ago today, if he believed all he had been taught about religion.

Roosevelt, a warden of the Episcopal Church, replied: "I never really thought about it. I think it is just as well not to think about things like that too much."

And once, asked about his philosophy, he said: "Philosophy? I am a Christian and a Democrat — that's all." The two answers give an insight into the man and the mind.

He was not an intellectual. He could not think in abstract terms. He was not even a wide reader. His vision was limited and unorganized.

He didn't see the depression coming any more than President Herbert Hoover did. When it did come he had no plans for coping with it, as he showed by trying to outdo Hoover in promising economy.

But he had a far greater sense of action and of the power of the presidency than Hoover. And, because his mind was not frozen, he had brains enough to know he needed ideas. To help him, he called in intellectuals.

With their help and the needs of the country he patched the New Deal together, a bit at a time, and some of the bits were no good and had to be discarded.

Although he was president a little more than 12 years, the New Deal was finished in his first five, ending with enactment of the 40-hour work week in 1938. By then foreign troubles had become overpowering.

Roosevelt's foundation stone was his temperament. A warm man, with a concern for people, he was responsive to their needs and for the first time gave millions a sense of belonging. No wonder millions wept when he died.

His guiding light was a sense of social justice and, because he had no philosophy, he was flexible and could accept change.

He was aristocratic, which gave him a sense of ease, and rich enough to feel secure within himself. Out of both came his self-confidence. The flexibility and the self-confidence enabled him to welcome challenge.

These qualities, and his faith in his country, made him the greatest cement-mixer in American history. Inheriting a shattered country, his task as he saw it was to glue the pieces together, sometimes with fresh cement.

The New Deal has been called a revolution and it was, insofar as it broke with the callous American past by making, for the first time the government responsible for the general welfare.

But he was basically a conservative and so was his revolution which can be seen by looking no further than at those two other revolutions of his day, fascism and communism, which were then itching to take over the world.

Much that he did he played by ear, assuming it would be understood that if he didn't do the best right away he would when he could. Once, when he took a step which looked devious and he got a complaint, he said: "For heaven's sake, have some faith."

He looked upon the presidency primarily as a position of leadership, but was haunted by the feeling he had to prepare people for his next step, so much so that he once complained: "It's a terrible thing to look over your shoulder when you are trying to lead and find no one there."

As a result of this concern, he failed far too long to lead the country out of neutrality and isolation when the opposite might have changed the history of the world by discouraging Hitler and Japan.

He never quite whipped the depression — the war did that — but he got the country off its back in one of its most desperate hours, started it moving, gave it a new direction, provided inspired leadership in war, and launched the atomic age.

In 12 years he steered his country out of chaos and into leadership of the Western world. In 1956 Clinton Rossiter, in his book, "The American Presidency," said: "Roosevelt, I am sure, will never be ranked with Washington and Lincoln."

Six years later 75 historians were polled on all the presidents and put Roosevelt next after Lincoln and Washington as great ones.

Dunlap Named To Campaign Unit

Formation of a state-wide organization to campaign for passage of Issue 3 at the polls May 4, was announced today in Columbus.

A member of the executive committee is John H. Dunlap, Williamsport, chairman of the Committee for Ohio Parks and Water Development. The group has been named the Ohio Home Rule Committee and will be headed by Earl McMunn, editor of The Ohio Farmer.

McMunn said that the committee, in the next three weeks before the May 4 election, will attempt to make certain that Ohio voters understand the choice they have at the May election. He explained the Issue 3 deals with reapportionment of the Ohio House of Representatives.

NEW YORK (AP) — All over the country, Little Leaguers are practicing knocking dirt off their shoes and tugging at their caps in earnest imitation of their baseball heroes, whose every mannerism can be observed so closely on television.

And, it seems, older fans of televised sports are causing consternation on many of the nation's golf courses where players — particularly the duffers — often go through the leisurely preliminaries they have learned from the professional stars.

During the final rounds of the Masters tournament which CBS covered live Saturday and Sunday, the players actually spent comparatively little time picking up grass, repairing turf on the putting greens or surveying the line from various angles.

Perhaps the players had been urged to get on with the game. Earlier this season, there were many long periods as players walked up to inspect the fairway beyond a rise, thoughtfully gazed at a water hazard or cleaned up a putting surface.

"Mission to Malaya," ABC's Saturday night special in its "Daring American" series, was an inspiring, warmly human and exciting documentary about two young Peace Corps nurses on a jungle island in Malaya.

We saw nurse Rita Franzone ably administering to the sick during the last few days of her two-year assignment. The Marjorie Benning, her replacement — eager but a bit unsure of the language and the people — moved on her first day into a life-or-death situation.

The hour closeup of these two fine young women did more to explain the Peace Corps than a thousand inspirational lectures and pamphlets.

Recommended tonight: "FDR Remembers," CBS, 10-11 EST — a memoir of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt on the 20th anniversary of his death.

Father, Son Discover on Roadway Lord Still Walks at Man's Side

EDITOR'S NOTE: At Easter time, most attention centers on the Crucifixion and the Resurrection of Christ. Yet the events which followed that world-shaking weekend are almost as dramatic. To the supporters of Jesus, terrified and driven into hiding, it seemed that the whole cause had been terminated in cruel, degrading defeat. Following is the first of five articles based on Biblical accounts and supplementary sources, dealing with that ensuing period of confusion, alarm and astonishment, the aftermath of Easter, the sequel to the Cross.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Two men strode along the road winding across the ridge northwest of Jerusalem. Their dark faces bore the stamp of despair.

"My hope is pulled up like a tree," said the older one, Cleopas. "They dashed him to pieces!" Grief, rage and shame mingled in his voice. "My soul is poured out within me. My eyes see no good."

The younger man, Simon, tightened the grip on his father's trembling hand, but still stared stonily ahead toward the reddening western horizon. "Alas, we are plunged into the pit. His house did not stand."

It was about 35 Roman stadia (four miles) to the town of Emmaus. Even though it had a century of about 100 legionnaires garrisoned there, it would be safer than Jerusalem, feverish with fears, tale-bearing, incendiary plots and arrests.

The whole country, from the uplands of rustic, defiant Galilee to the southern deserts of occupied Judea, smoldered with unrest and sparks of revolt against the alien, pagan oppressor.

But along the rocky road to Emmaus, in the lull of declining day, the two desolate footmen moved in a landscape of stillness.

It was the 17th of the spring month of Nisan, and only two days before, on the eve of the Sabbath, their adored and commanding champion, Jesus of Nazareth, had been crucified along with two insurgent brigands.

He, too, had been branded a would-be insurrectionist. A titulus, slung about his neck at orders of Rome's ruler, Pontius Pilate, charged he had sought to recapture the national throne, as "King of the Jews."

Cleopas recalled puzzling things which Jesus had foretold to the Apostles many weeks ago around a campfire in Galilee, but which none had understood.

The words had been thrust aside then as meaningless, but now, stabbingly, they came back. "Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem, and everything that is written of the Son of Man by the prophets will be accomplished. For He will be delivered to the Gentiles, and...they will scourge Him and kill Him..."

Cleopas and Simon had been among the 70 disciples sent out two-by-two as yokefellows to spread Jesus' help to the lowly and rejected. A sister of Jesus' mother, Mary, was Cleopas's wife. She was among the women who watched at the Crucifixion.

She and Cleopas also had other sons. Two of them, Levi, known as Matthew, and stubby James the Less were among the 12 chief adjutants of Jesus, the Apostles. All in fear had deserted him at his arrest.

The Apostles remained in hiding at the Jerusalem house of the widow Mary bath-Nabab. But others, to avoid arousing suspicion by their numbers, had dispersed. Cleopas and Simon among them.

Utter stupefaction had prevailed there that morning, especially after the women brought their wild report of the empty tomb, and their visionary claims that Jesus had arisen. "An idle tale," the Apostles had reproached.

Yet dimly, disturbingly another phrase spoken by Jesus returned in memory. "...and on the third day, He shall rise..."

Cleopas jerked at the thong, tightening the girdle about his mantle, and tramped on.

From somewhere, possibly behind them, a wayfaring stranger had moved up beside them, intruding into their conversation, asking what troubled them so greatly as they walked.

The two men halted, staring glumly at the stranger. Cleopas sighed and said skeptically, "Are you the only visitor to Jerusalem who does not know the things that have happened there in these days?"

Cleopas shook his head and resumed the journey. He recounted tersely the recent events and added bitterly, "We had hoped that He was the one to redeem Israel."

A silence fell momentarily among them. Somewhat annoyingly, the stranger stayed alongside. Then, in a low voice, almost as if to himself, he said, "O foolish men, and slow of heart to believe..."

Then old prophecies and forgotten intimations began to stir in Cleopas in a new way. "Behold, my servant..." Isaiah had written, "despised and rejected by men, bruised for our iniquities, with His stripes we are healed."

And Jesus had spoken similarly. "Blessed are those who mourn...those who are persecuted for righteousness sake...I am the way...the door...I go away, and I will come to you. You will weep and lament...But be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

Distance and time passed, and all at once Cleopas realized they had reached the edge of Emmaus. It was nearly dark, but the stranger appeared to be going on. Cleopas urged, "Stay with us. The day is far spent."

They found a hotel, and sat down to a meal of bread, cheese and wine. The stranger took the bread, thanking God for bringing forth sustenance from the earth, broke it and gave it to them to eat.

Suddenly, in that common act, in sharing with the stranger in the natural means through which man exists, feels, thinks and functions, Cleopas and his son realized who He was. Then just as quickly, once they knew, the sensory sight of Him was gone.

The Book of Luke records: "And their eyes were opened and they recognized Him; and He vanished out of their sight." In a simple meal, they had found their Lord's presence.

They departed, in that same hour, to return to Jerusalem to tell the others, but as the Book of Mark records, "they did not believe them." Utter dejection gripped those others. They dwelt in the opaque eye of death.

Yet in that harsh darkness, a new clarity would come, so mighty that it would hurl those same men into the thick of danger, prisons and martyrdom, in order to proclaim it.

And after the slaying of one of them, Jesus' brother, James, his successor as bishop of Jerusalem would be Cleopas, the man of the road who first realized that the Lord still walks at man's side and communes in ordinary things, as simple as a piece of bread.

Highway Safety Money Bill To Come Up Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate takes another look tonight at the technically defeated Highway-Highway Safety appropriations bill in a move that could clear or cloud the outlook for the 106th General Assembly.

The evenly divided upper chamber will decide whether to reconsider the $888 million measure, put it aside, or let it die and start all over again. In any event, the decision must come tonight.

Democrats voted against the GOP administration bill at a heated session last week and the 16 Republican votes were one shy of the 17 needed for passage.

Under senate rules, Democrats have two legislative days in which to move to reconsider, since their negative votes prevailed on the issue. This is the second day.

Only 13 Democrats voted but the constitution requires that a bill must have a majority of the entire membership in order to pass. They indicated they will move to reconsider with the bill left pending so as give them more time to study the measure.

The lack of time for study was their argument against the proposal which would appropriate funds to run the Highway and Highway Safety departments for two years beginning in July. "This is a shotgun deal," Sen. Charles L. Pancake, D-Athens, asserted. Republicans accused Democrats of stall tactics.

Hearings begin this week in the Senate Finance Committee on the administration's $1.46 billion general appropriations bill, already approved by the Republican-controlled House. It is expected to meet with more Democratic opposition than the highway measure on the Senate floor.

The big money bills are regarded as the key to whether any sort of compromise can be fashioned so that other important bills have a chance of clearing the legislative machinery.

Sen. Ross Pepple, R - Allen, newly designated chairman of the Finance Committee, has announced the committee will consider changes in the big appropriations bill to give four-year status to more state university branches.

Pepple also said he believes state universities should not expand further for undergraduates. He has suggested branch campuses at Mansfield, Martins

Youth Conference Session

Bible College Youth Event Rated Best Ever Held Here

The Youth Conference completed during the weekend at the Circleville Bible College has been rated the greatest such event conducted here, according to officials at the local institution.

More than 175 youths from seven states participated, including a chartered 41-passenger bus delegation from New York State. Others came from all over Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan.

The special function, designed to acquaint young people with the work of the college, is a growing program across the nation. Most colleges feature such a gathering either on a single day basis, or a weekend event such as the conference here.

A survey showed that one third of the present college enrollment in Circleville attended at least one of the previous conferences. Spokesmen said there is little doubt the present conference will help swell the student body here to a level for 1965-1966 previously unknown at Circleville.

THE 1946-65 enrollment has remained constant throughout the year at a level 43 per cent above that of 1963-1964.

Indications are a comparable gain will be shown this year. Officials expect that September

Ferry, Portsmouth, Chillicothe, Zanesville, and Canton.

Other activities this week will include a second hearing on controversial legislation calling on school boards to extend bus transportation to private and parochial pupils.

A Poor Trade

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — It would be a losing proposition to carry feed and water to a cow for one year in exchange for all the milk you wanted.

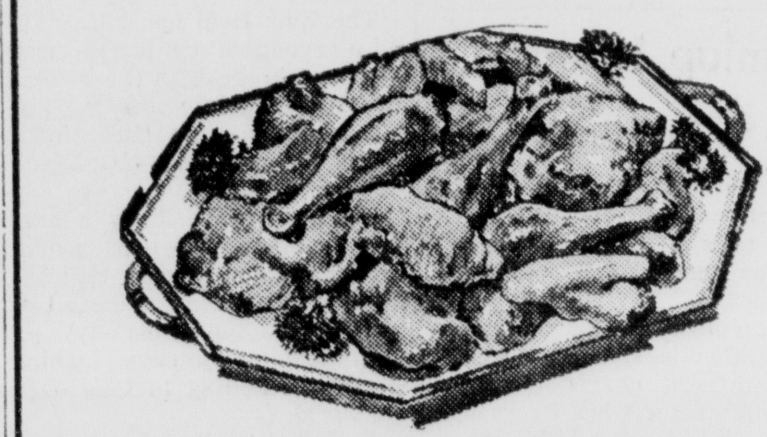

Dairy specialists at the University of Kentucky figure that in exchange for 11,000 pounds of milk you would carry nearly seven times that much water and one and one-tenth times as much feed.

Highway Safety Money Bill To Come Up Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate takes another look tonight at the technically defeated Highway-Highway Safety appropriations bill in a move that could clear or cloud the outlook for the 106th General Assembly.

The evenly divided upper chamber will decide whether to reconsider the $888 million measure, put it aside, or let it die and start all over again. In any event, the decision must come tonight.

Democrats voted against the GOP administration bill at a heated session last week and the 16 Republican votes were one shy of the 17 needed for passage.

Under senate rules, Democrats have two legislative days in which to move to reconsider, since their negative votes prevailed on the issue. This is the second day.

Only 13 Democrats voted but the constitution requires that a bill must have a majority of the entire membership in order to pass. They indicated they will move to reconsider with the bill left pending so as give them more time to study the measure.

The lack of time for study was their argument against the proposal which would appropriate funds to run the Highway and Highway Safety departments for two years beginning in July. "This is a shotgun deal," Sen. Charles L. Packer, D-Athens, asserted. Republicans accused Democrats of stall tactics.

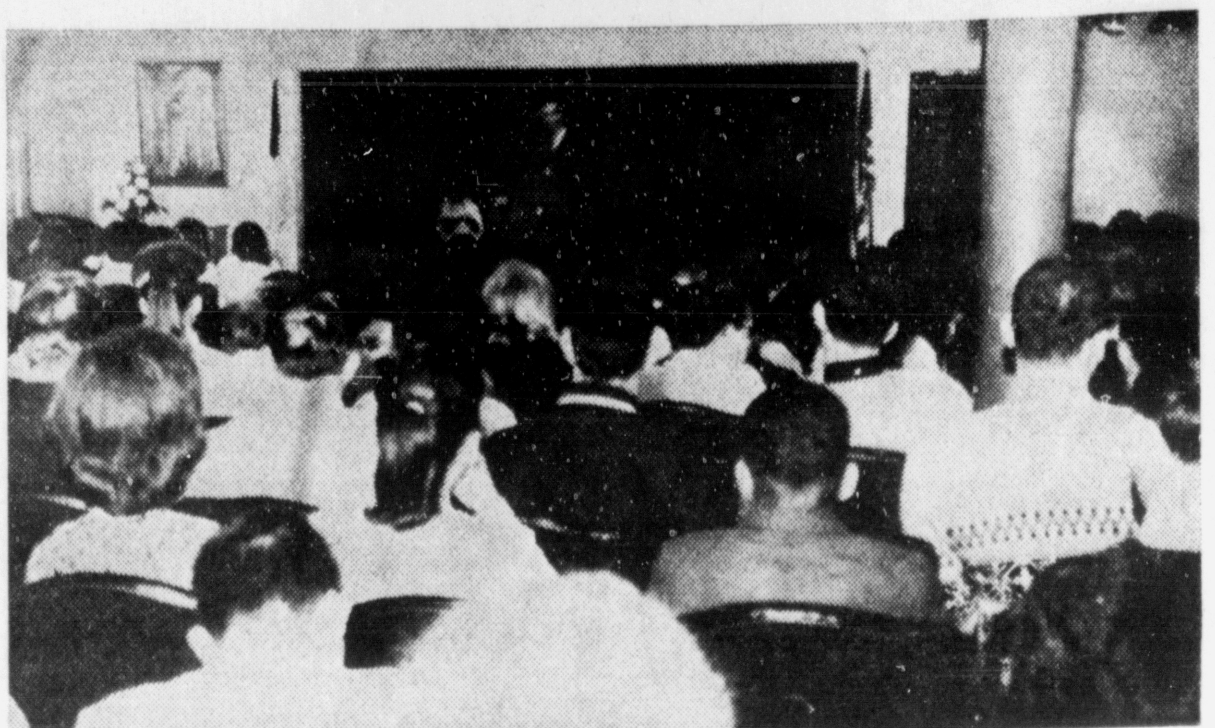

Hearings begin this week in the Senate Finance Committee on the administration's $1.46 billion general appropriations bill, already approved by the Republican-controlled House. It is expected to meet with more Democratic opposition than the highway measure on the Senate floor.

The big money bills are regarded as the key to whether any sort of compromise can be fashioned from the Senate impasse so that other important bills have a chance of clearing the legislative machinery.

Sen. Ross Pepple, R - Allen, newly designated chairman of the Finance Committee, has announced the committee will consider changes in the big appropriations bill to give four-year status to more state university branches.

Pepple also said he believes state universities should not expand further for undergraduates. He has suggested branch campuses at Mansfield, Martins

Youth Conference Session

Bible College Youth Event Rated Best Ever Held Here

The Youth Conference completed during the weekend at the Circleville Bible College has been rated the greatest such event conducted here, according to officials at the local institution.

More than 175 youths from seven states participated, including a chartered 41-passenger bus delegation from New York State. Others came from all over Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan.

The special function, designed to acquaint young people with the work of the college, is a growing program across the nation. Most colleges feature such a gathering either on a single day basis, or a weekend event such as the conference here.

A survey showed that one third of the present college enrollment in Circleville attended at least one of the previous conferences. Spokesmen said there is little doubt the present conference will help swell the student body here to a level for 1965-1966 previously unknown at Circleville.

THE 1946-65 enrollment has remained constant throughout the year at a level 43 per cent above that of 1963-1964.

Indications are a comparable gain will be shown this year. Officials expect that September

Ferry, Portsmouth, Chillicothe, Zanesville, and Canton.

Other activities this week will include a second hearing on controversial legislation calling on school boards to extend bus transportation to private and parochial pupils.

A Poor Trade

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — It would be a losing proposition to carry feed and water to a cow for one year in exchange for all the milk you wanted.

Dairy specialists at the University of Kentucky figure that in exchange for 11,000 pounds of milk you would carry nearly seven times that much water and one and one-tenth times as much feed.

23 Track Marks Fall In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's track stars are off on a record-breaking spree.

The Buckeye boys blasted nine old marks in the 34th Mansfield High School Relays Saturday as the scholastic stars kicked off their campaign. And the collegians had a picnic at Athens as they wrote 14 new records into the book at the sixth annual Ohio University Relays.

More than 900 athletes, including those from 14 colleges, get another crack at the stopwatch next Saturday as Ohio State University presents its annual cinder carnival.

Cleveland Glenville tallied 29 points to snatch the Mansfield high school crown from 187 other squads, although Coach Frank Zubovich's thin-clads won only two events Cleveland East Tec nine-time winner of the school-boy classic, was second, with 26, for the sixth time.

No team champion was named in the Ohio University event.

Central State set a 3:28.2 record in the sprint medley relay; Ohio University's distance medley team went in 10:01.9 for one record, and the two-mile relay team 6:41 for another and Martin Eisen of Kent State tossed the shot 55 feet 2 inches to set a new mark.

NCAA OKs Rule On Scouting

KANSAS CITY (AP) — It's official now — the NCAA has the power to crack down on moonlighting by college football coaches, paid for providing information and steering players to the pros.

The coaches can go on providing scouting reports and helping them in other ways, but if they receive any compensation "directly or indirectly," their school would be subjected to NCAA enforcement.

The case would go to the infractions committee which could put the school on probation, prohibiting its participation in bowl games — or in the case of basketball — the national tournament.

Russell Finds Formula for Topping Wilt

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Russell has a Chamberlain antidote — solitude, television and sleeping pills.

It's helped propel the Boston Celtics to the threshold of another National Basketball Association playoff milestone. Russell outdid his taller nemesis, Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain, in a 114-108 Boston victory Sunday as the Celtics took a 3-2 edge in the best-of-7 series.

Los Angeles defeated Baltimore 120-112 in the other semifinal Sunday night and can enter the playoffs with a victory at Baltimore Wednesday night. The Lakers hold a 32 edge.

A sensitive man who calls basketball "the most emotional game with the possible exception of soccer," Russell says he must get away from the mental strain to play his best.

As usual, he conceded scoring superiority to Chamberlain, 30 points to 2 Sunday. But it was Celtics' Capt. Russell Mastering Wilt in rebounds 28-21, blocked shots 12-2, assists, 7-2 and steals 3-0.

"I'm taking sleeping pills to get 7-8 hours of sleep just during these playoffs," said Russell, propped on a dressing room stool too tired to move. "I'm an old man in this game. It takes longer to bounce back than it used to."

Birdie Says Tribe To Be Contender

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What does Cleveland Indians Manager Birdie Tefft think of his ball club, which opens the regular season tonight against the Los Angeles Angels?

"We'll never be any more ready than we are now," said Tefft. "Our big problem, as is everybody's, is to keep our pitchers in shape. We definitely are a pennant contender."

The Indians finished the exhibition season Sunday by losing to their Portland farm club, 6-5 in 10 innings at Tucson, Ariz. The Tribe finished spring training with a 14-13 record.

Ralph Terry will pitch the opener for the Indians and face Fred Newman. Both are ex-Yankees. Terry is optimistic, along with pitcher Stan William who also came to the Indians from the Yankees.

Outfielder Rocky Colavito, back with the Indians this season after a five-year absence, has only one goal: "only to do my best," he said, "which is what I've always tried to do."

The Indians cut the squad to the required 28 players Sunday by selling relief pitcher Ted Abernathy to the Chicago Cubs and activating first baseman Ray Barker of their Portland farm club.

Peacemaker Role Costs Cager Eye

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dennis Meadors, who received honorable mention on the All-Ohio basketball team last season and who recently signed a grant-in-aid at Ohio State University, tried to break up a weekend fight between two youths and it cost him his left eye.

The 17-year-old senior at Dayton Stebbins High School said he was watching the fight Friday night and tried to intervene with a "big guy went after a little guy." Meadors was struck in the face with a beer bottle, which broke when it hit him.

Sheriff's deputies arrested 20-year-old Larry Stamps of Dayton and booked him on investigation of assault with a deadly weapon.

The Baltimore Orioles were the after-dark champions of the American League in 1964. They won 63 night games, lost 38 and tied one.

Nicklaus Wins Masters, Applause of Gallery, Too

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus stands out today as the greatest golfer in the world and Jack's Pack has taken over from Arnie's Army.

Still admittedly on cloud nine after spread-eagling the world's finest field with a record Masters score of 271 for 72 holes, 17 strokes under par, the now jovial strong boy from Columbus, Ohio, seemed to be as happy over winning over the galleries as with his fantastic feats on the course.

The 25-year-old blond bomber, treated coldly by some fans before, received tremendous ovations from the opening round. His final round Sunday seemed like a triumphal parade before galleries which swelled to more than 25,000 at times.

"It felt great to hear the crowds cheer me and it definitely helped my game," said Nicklaus. "I'm not an outgoing person like Arnie (Palmer) and Gary (Player) and I guess some of the fans resented me for winning when I was so young. Maybe it's because I've matured, too."

Nicklaus, who came to the Augusta National Golf Club a week in advance to make a determined bid for the title he first won in 1963, broke the tournament wide open with a fabulous, record-tying, eight-under-par 64 on Saturday.

Palmer, the 1964 champion and a record four-time winner of the Masters, called Nicklaus' four rounds of 67, 71, 64, 69, "the greatest 72 holes of golf ever played. His tremendous putting was the difference."

Bobby Jones, a living legend of golf and originator of the Masters, paid the muscular Ohioan the same compliment.

Palmer and Player, of South Africa, the other member of golf's formidable "Big Three" tied for second with 280 each after being deadlocked with Nicklaus for first with 138 at the halfway mark.

Palmer had rounds of 70, 68, 72-70 for the par 36-36—72, 6,980-yard course that was massacred under a birdie barrage Thursday and then held off further mass assaults. Player had rounds of 65, 73, 79, 73.

"Nicklaus just played Fantastic golf," said Player.

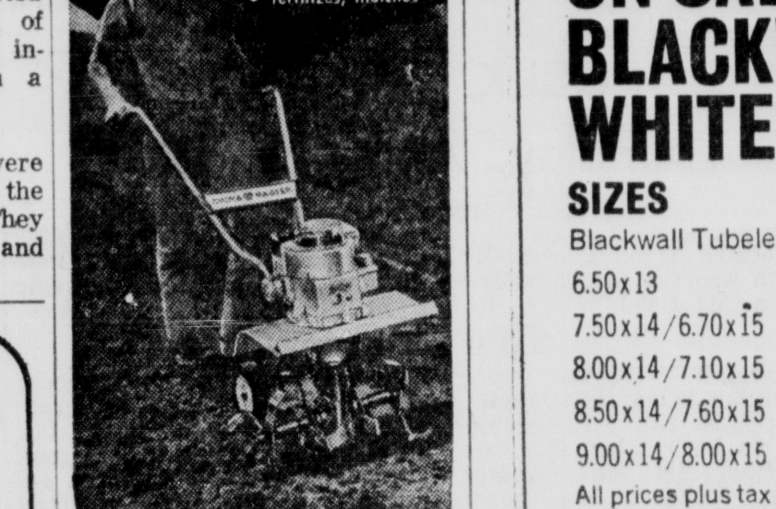

A non-winner on the winter circuit, Nicklaus collected $20,000 of the record $140,075 Masters purse. This put him in first place on the PGA's official money winning list for the year with $34,400. Player and Palmer each received $10,200.

Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., took fourth and $6,200 with 283. Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., was fifth with 285 and earned $5,000. Gene Littler, the 1961 Open champion from San Diego, and Ramon Sota of Spain, tied for sixth with 286s and won $3,800 each.

Redlegs Win Top Honor in Spring League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Baseball's exhibition season has ended with the Cincinnati Reds on top in the Grapefruit-Cactus standings and Sandy Koufax' priceless pitching arm on ice.

Despite an 8-1 loss to the Chicago White Sox Sunday, the Reds paced major league clubs with a 19-9 record in pre-season play, which wound up Sunday night with Baltimore's 5-0 victory over Houston at the Astros' $31.6-million domed stadium.

Regular season races in the American and National leagues began today with openers in nine cities.

Koufax, the ailing Los Angeles Dodgers ace, tested his arthritic elbow for the first time in two weeks, working three scoreless innings in a 2-1 victory over Washington, and then had the elbow encased in ice.

Sandy, who struck out the last five Senators he faced, said his arm felt great but added that he didn't know what the reaction would be. "It usually takes 24 hours before any reaction sets in," the 29-year-old southpaw said.

Houston's Nelson Fox set a Texas indoor record for breaking up extra-inning games when he singled home a 10th-inning run that gave the Astros a 3-2 afternoon nod over the New York Yankees. Fox beat the Yankees Friday night with a 12th-inning single.

The Milwaukee Braves completed a three-game sweep at Atlanta, their 1966 home, by nipping Detroit 3-2. The St. Louis Cardinals edged host Kansas City 6-5 on a three-run eighth-inning rally.

Pittsburgh whipped Philadelphia 5-1 at Birmingham, Ala., on the four-hit pitching of Don Cardwell, Don Schwall and Al McBean. At Wichita, home runs by Harry Bright, Leo Burke and Don Landrum powered the Chicago Cubs past Boston 10-3. The Cleveland Indians and Los Angeles Angels dropped their exhibition finales to Pacific Coast League clubs. Portland topped the Indians 6-5 in 10 innings and Seattle nipped the Angels 1-0.

Mustangs Sweep 2 Games; Bowen Hurls No-Hitter

Westfall's baseball team, spearheaded by a sparkling pitching performance by Danny Bowen, swept to a doubleheader victory Saturday over Madison South. The twin win was accomplished on the Madison South diamond.

Bowen set the pace with a brilliant no-hitter in the first contest which cleared the way for a 5-0 Mustang victory. Neil Coleman and Ronnie Lahmer combined for a 5-4 verdict in the second encounter, with Coleman declared the winner.

A two-bagger by Bowen that drove home three runs in the opening game aided the hurler's own cause. The other two runs were the result of a sharp single by Lou Gantz.

Westfall scored all five of its runs in the fourth inning in the initial tilt. Bowen fired third strikes past 14 batters during his no-hit performance.

PAUL HOSKINS' Mustangs accumulated 8 hits in the opener, including a perfect three for three by Tom Hamman. Kenny Martindale swatted two safeties to go along with the run-producing blows by Bowen and Gantz and a single by Norman O'Conner.

Stewart absorbed the loss for Madison South. He fanned seven.

Madison South committed three errors. Westfall was charged with two bobbles.

Coleman and Lahmer picked up in the second game where Bowen left off in the first as they limited Madison South to six hits. The Mustangs salted away the victory with two runs in the first frame, two in the third and one in the sixth. Madison South scored one in the first, one in the fourth, one in the fifth and one in the seventh.

Westfall tured in three double plays in the second game and collected nine hits. Leading the way at the plate were Martindale, Gantz and O'Conner with two singles each. Gary Liff, Richard Mason and Roger Stapleton added one-baggers.

Coleman and Lahmer teamed up for nine strikeouts. J. Deck, who suffered the loss, whiffed six.

The Mustangs' next competition comes Wednesday when they travel to Logan Elm.

Laguna Becomes Lightweight King

PANAMA CITY (AP) — "He doesn't stick around to get hit."

And that's the reason 21-year-old Ismael Laguna is now lightweight champion of the world, according to the beaten favorite, Carlos Ortiz.

The elusive young Panamanian won the title with a split 15-round decision over Ortiz Saturday night before an ecstatic crowd of 18,000 at Olympic Stadium.

"Laguna is not a strong puncher, but I couldn't get to him," Ortiz said after the fight. The 28-year-old Puerto Rican won the crown from Joe Brown three years ago, defended it successfully four times, and was narrowly favored to win again.

The New York Mets have compiled their best all-time record against the Chicago Cubs, 23 wins and 31 losses.

Mustangs Sweep 2 Games; Bowen Hurls No-Hitter

Westfall's baseball team, spearheaded by a sparkling pitching performance by Danny Bowen, swept to a doubleheader victory Saturday over Madison South. The twin win was accomplished on the Madison South diamond.

Bowen set the pace with a brilliant no-hitter in the first contest which cleared the way for a 5-0 Mustang victory. Neil Coleman and Ronnie Lahrmr combined for a 5-4 verdict in the second encounter, with Coleman declared the winner.

A two - bagger by Bowen that drove home three runs in the opening game aided the hurler's own cause. The other two runs were the result of a sharp single by Lou Gantz.

Westfall scored all five of its runs in the fourth inning in the initial tilt. Bowen fired third strikes past 14 batters during his no-hit performance.

PAUL HOSKINS' Mustangs accumulated 8 hits in the opener, including a perfect three for-three by Tom Hamman. Kenny Martindale swatted two safeties to go along with the run-producing blows by Bowen and Gantz and a single by Norman O'Conner.

Stewart absorbed the loss for Madison South. He fanned seven.

Madison South committed three errors. Westfall was charged with two bobbles.

Coleman and Lahrmr picked up in the second game where Bowen left off in the first as they limited Madison South to six hits. The Mustangs salted away the victory with two runs in the first frame, two in the third and one in the sixth. Madison South scored one in the first, one in the fourth, one in the fifth and one in the seventh.

Westfall tured in three double plays in the second game and collected nine hits. Leading the way at the plate were Martindale, Gantz and O'Conner with two singles each. Gary Liff, Richard Mason and Roger Stapleton added one-baggers.

Coleman and Lahrmr teamed up for nine strikeouts. J. Deck, who suffered the loss, whiffed six.

The Mustangs' next competition comes Wednesday when they travel to Logan Elm.

Laguna Becomes Lightweight King

PANAMA CITY (AP) — "He doesn't stick around to get hit."

And that's the reason 21-year-old Ismael Laguna is now lightweight champion of the world, according to the beaten favorite, Carlos Ortiz.

The elusive young Panamanian won the title with a split 15-round decision over Ortiz Saturday night before an ecstatic crowd of 18,000 at Olympic Stadium.

"Laguna is not a strong puncher, but I couldn't get to him," Ortiz said after the fight. The 28-year-old Puerto Rican won the crown from Joe Brown three years ago, defended it successfully four times, and was narrowly favored to win again.

The New York Mets have compiled their best all-time record against the Chicago Cubs, 23 wins and 31 losses.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Major League Managers Select Top Contenders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
St. Louis and Philadelphia are expected to emerge as the top contenders in a six-team National League race and the New York Yankees, Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles are selected to fight it out in the American League according to the pre-season comments of the 20 big league managers.

The managers went on the record, more or less emphatically depending on their position, before the season opened today with an unusual nine-game program. The only teams not scheduled to start today, Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox, will play their first game Tuesday at Baltimore.

Of prime interest on the program expected to attract 268,000 fans was the first official indoor game at Houston's domed stadium where the Astros were to meet the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game.

The St. Louis Cardinals, the World Series winners, opened defense of their National League pennant in Chicago.

In other day games Milwaukee helped Cincinnati stage its traditional gala opener, the Los Angeles Dodgers took on the New York Mets at Shea Stadium and San Francisco was at Pittsburgh for a duel of new managers Herman Franks of the Giants and Harry Walker of the Pirates.

The New York Yankees were at Minnesota and President Johnson was to throw out the first ball at Washington before the game between the Boston Red Sox and the Senators.

There were two night games on the American League schedule, Detroit at Kansas City and Cleveland at Los Angeles.

In the latest rundown of odds at Las Vegas the Yanks were 4-5 favorites in the American League with Baltimore 5-2 and Chicago 7-2. In the National League the Giants were 3-1 with the Cardinals, Dodgers and Phillies bunched at 7-2 and the Reds 4-1. The managers' comments:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Johnny Keane, New York — "I've got the most talented group I've ever managed and I'm sure we'll win the pennant."

Al Lopez, Chicago — "We're in better shape to catch the Yankees than any year since I came to Chicago. You can't discount the Orioles and Yankees as tough to beat."

Hank Bauer, Baltimore — "I'm picking Baltimore to win it this time. Our guys profited from being in the race last year and that experience is valuable. It's not gonna be easy. New York, as always, Chicago, Baltimore, Cleveland, Minnesota and Detroit are good clubs."

"My club is improved on the bench. The team that stays healthiest has the best chance and Baltimore's got as good a chance as anybody."

Bob Swift, Detroit — "Six teams will figure in the race. They are Chicago, New York, Baltimore, Cleveland, Minnesota and us. We have as good a chance as anybody."

Bill Rigney, Los Angeles — "No predictions. I never have. I'm confident we're going to have an improved early season. By June 1 last year we were 10th. Despite a 66-50 record after that we could do no better than fifth."

Birdie Tebbetts, Cleveland — "We're definitely a contender. I agree with the 'experts' who pick Cleveland behind New York, Baltimore and Chicago. The way I see it the league is divided into three sections: Yanks, Orioles and White Sox; then Cleveland, Detroit, Minnesota, Los Angeles and Boston, an improved team."

Sam Mele, Minnesota — "I think the White Sox will be tougher than the Yankees because they have the best pitching and have added a couple of youngsters who should make their pitching even better."

"I think the Twins have to be better but I can't say how much. We have guys in the bullpen who can save some games for us. We've still got a lot of room for improvement on defense."

Billy Herman, Boston — "I've got to say the Yankees once again are the team to beat. They have a sound ball club and don't beat themselves very often. Chicago and Baltimore both figure to be tough with good pitching and defense."

Gil Hodges, Washington — "If there was such a thing as a three-sided coin I would flip it among the White Sox, Orioles and Yanks. If the Orioles win, a comeback by Steve Barber would be the key. We are much improved because of our trades with the Dodgers and Indians."

Mel McGaha, Athletics — "You have to go with the Yankees. I think the race will be a great deal like last year with Chicago and Baltimore giving the Yanks the most trouble."

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Red Schoendienst, St. Louis — "I think the Cardinals have an excellent chance of repeating but it will be tough. Milwaukee will be a threat and don't overlook Los Angeles and San Francisco."

Dick Sisler, Cincinnati — "It ought to be a five-or six-club race, depending on whether the Dodgers work out their problems at third and second base and if Koufax and Podres are all right."

Gene Mauch, Philadelphia — "The Phillies were a good club last season. They should be better this year. Some of our players were outstanding like Richie Allen, Johnny Callison, Chris Short and Jim Bunning."

Herman Franks, San Francisco — "Certainly we have a shot at the pennant and so do a half a dozen others. Rate the finish? I'm not going to make any comparisons or worry about what others will do. I just hope we stay healthy."

Bobby Bragan, Milwaukee — "St. Louis and Cincinnati are the teams to beat. It looks like a six-club race. We will be in the thick of it, and so will San Francisco, Philadelphia and Los Angeles. Pittsburgh is a possible dark horse."

Walter Alston, Dodgers — "This is no time to try to pick a winner, but I feel we will be in it all the way."

"If we stay physically sound and, if some of the men, like Tommy Davis, Willie Davis and Maury Wills, are as good during the season as they've been in spring training, we could win the pennant. We'll have as good a chance as any."

Barry Walker, Pittsburgh — "I would say the Cardinals have the ball club. They would be my choice if I had to make a prediction. The dark horse will be Milwaukee in the usual close race where five or six teams can win the pennant."

Bob Kennedy, Chicago — "This is the year the Cubs are going to break out of the second division. We have as good a hitting club as any and might even be better than most."

Lum Harris, Houston — "I think it will be a six-team race and maybe seven if Koufax is all right. Milwaukee is going to be tough, but I like Cincinnati real well."

Casey Stengel, New York — "The Mets have a good chance to climb out of tenth place. We have first-division men at first, second, shortstop, left field and in throwing at catcher."

"All in all, there's more of a chance for good things to happen. As for the pennant race, Cincinnati could provide a big surprise by taking it."

Roy Face of the Pittsburgh Pirates has made 439 consecutive appearances as a relief pitcher, a major league record.

St. Louis and Philadelphia are expected to emerge as the top contenders in a six-team National League race and the New York Yankees, Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles are selected to fight it out in the American League according to the pre-season comments of the 20 big league managers.

The managers went on the record, more or less emphatically depending on their position, before the season opened today with an unusual nine-game program. The only teams not scheduled to start today, Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox, will play their first game Tuesday at Baltimore.

Of prime interest on the program expected to attract 268,000 fans was the first official indoor game at Houston's domed stadium where the Astros were to meet the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game.

The St. Louis Cardinals, the World Series winners, opened defense of their National League pennant in Chicago.

In other day games Milwaukee helped Cincinnati stage its traditional gala opener, the Los Angeles Dodgers took on the New York Mets at Shea Stadium and San Francisco was at Pittsburgh for a duel of new managers Herman Franks of the Giants and Harry Walker of the Pirates.

The New York Yankees were at Minnesota and President Johnson was to throw out the first ball at Washington before the game between the Boston Red Sox and the Senators.

There were two night games on the American League schedule, Detroit at Kansas City and Cleveland at Los Angeles.

In the latest rundown of odds at Las Vegas the Yanks were 4-5 favorites in the American League with Baltimore 5-2 and Chicago 7-2. In the National the Giants were 3-1 with the Cardinals, Dodgers and Phillies bunched at 7-2 and the Reds 4-1. The managers' comments:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Johnny Keane, New York — "I've got the most talented group I've ever managed and I'm sure we'll win the pennant."

Al Lopez, Chicago — "We're in better shape to catch the Yankees than any year since I came to Chicago. You can't discount the Orioles and Yankees as tough to beat."

Hank Bauer, Baltimore — "I'm picking Baltimore to win it this time. Our guys profited from being in the race last year and that experience is valuable. It's not gonna be easy. New York, as always, Chicago, Baltimore, Cleveland, Minnesota and Detroit are good clubs."

"My club is improved on the bench. The team that stays healthiest has the best chance and Baltimore's got as good a chance as anybody."

Bob Swift, Detroit — "Six teams will figure in the race. They are Chicago, New York, Baltimore, Cleveland, Minnesota and us. We have as good a chance as anybody."

Bill Rigney, Los Angeles — "No predictions. I never have. I'm confident we're going to have an improved early season. By June 1 last year we were 10th. Despite a 66-50 record after that we could do no better than fifth."

Birdie Tebbetts, Cleveland — "We're definitely a contender. I agree with the 'experts' who pick Cleveland behind New York, Baltimore and Chicago. The way I see it the league is divided into three sections: Yanks, Orioles and White Sox; then Cleveland, Detroit, Minnesota, Los Angeles and Boston, an improved team."

Sam Mele, Minnesota — "I think the White Sox will be tougher than the Yankees because they have the best pitching and have added a couple of youngsters who should make their pitching even better."

"I think the Twins have to be better but I can't say how much. We have guys in the bullpen who can save some games for us. We've still got a lot of room for improvement on defense."

Billy Herman, Boston — "I've got to say the Yankees once again are the team to beat. They have a sound ball club and don't beat themselves very often. Chicago and Baltimore both figure to be tough with good pitching and defense."

Gil Hodges, Washington — "If there was such a thing as a three-sided coin I would flip it among the White Sox, Orioles and Yanks. If the Orioles win, a comeback by Steve Barber would be the key. We are much improved because of our trades with the Dodgers and Indians."

Mel McGaha, Athletics — "You have to go with the Yankees. I think the race will be a great deal like last year with Chicago and Baltimore giving the Yanks the most trouble."

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Red Schoendienst, St. Louis — "I think the Cardinals have an excellent chance of repeating but it will be tough. Milwaukee will be a threat and don't overlook Los Angeles and San Francisco."

Dick Sisler, Cincinnati — "It ought to be a five-or six-club race, depending on whether the Dodgers work out their problems at third and second base and if Koufax and Podres are all right."

Gene Mauch, Philadelphia — "The Phillies were a good club last season. They should be better this year. Some of our players were outstanding like Richie Allen, Johnny Callison, Chris Short and Jim Bunning."

Herman Franks, San Francisco — "Certainly we have a shot at the pennant and so do a half a dozen others. Rate the finish? I'm not going to make any comparisons or worry about what others will do. I just hope we stay healthy."

Bobby Bragan, Milwaukee — "St. Louis and Cincinnati are the teams to beat. It looks like a six-club race. We will be in the thick of it, and so will San Francisco, Philadelphia and Los Angeles. Pittsburgh is a possible dark horse."

Walter Alston, Dodgers — "This is no time to try to pick a winner, but I feel we will be in it all the way."

"If we stay physically sound and, if some of the men, like Tommy Davis, Willie Davis and Maury Wills, are as good during the season as they've been in spring training, we could win the pennant. We'll have as good a chance as any."

Barry Walker, Pittsburgh — "I would say the Cardinals have the ball club. They would be my choice if I had to make a prediction. The dark horse will be Milwaukee in the usual close race where five or six teams can win the pennant."

Bob Kennedy, Chicago — "This is the year the Cubs are going to break out of the second division. We have as good a hitting club as any and might even be better than most."

Lum Harris, Houston — "I think it will be a six-team race and maybe seven if Koufax is all right. Milwaukee is going to be tough, but I like Cincinnati real well."

Casey Stengel, New York — "The Mets have a good chance to climb out of tenth place. We have first-division men at first, second, shortstop, left field and in throwing at catcher."

"All in all, there's more of a chance for good things to happen. As for the pennant race, Cincinnati could provide a big surprise by taking it."

Roy Face of the Pittsburgh Pirates has made 439 consecutive appearances as a relief pitcher, a major league record.

Officers installed with Winner were: Gene Lindsey, Robert Huffer, Chester McKenzie, Warren Baker, Wendell Emerine, Jack Weikert, John Dougherty, Richard Plum and Karl Drum.

LBJ Hopes School Aid Bill To Bring New 'Equality'

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, sitting in the shadow of "this little school of my childhood," has signed into law a $1.3-billion education aid bill he says will bring "quality and equality" to schooling.

At a simple ceremony Sunday two miles from his ranch home, Johnson reached the high point of a busy weekend that saw him pay his respects to Houston's futuristic baseball stadium, select retired Vice Adm. William F. Raborn Jr. as new chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, and sound a fresh warning of American determination in Viet Nam.

Johnson, with his first teacher sitting by his side, said of the education bill:

"As President of the United States, I believe deeply no law I have signed or will ever sign means more to the future of America."

Behind him was the tin-sheathed home which 53 years ago was a one-room schoolhouse where, as he told several hundred spectators as well as his old teacher, Kate Dedrich Loney, 72, of Rough and Ready, Calif.:

"I started school when I was 4 years old, and they tell me, Miss Kate, that I recited my first lessons while sitting on your lap."

Scores of old friends and schoolmates assembled for the occasion from all parts of Texas were ready to testify this was true.

Thus it was fitting that, in setting a precedent by using only one pen to sign the bill, Johnson handed the writing instrument to Miss Kate.

Of the new law, Johnson said: "It represents a major new commitment of the federal government to quality and equality in the schooling that we offer our young people. By passing this bill, we bridge the gap between helplessness and hope for more than five million educationally deprived children in America."

The local performer was accompanied to Cincinnati by relatives and Mr. and Mrs. McFerron and sons Bill and John.

Second Apportioning Issue May Face Voter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans may be asked to vote on a second proposed legislative reapportionment plan before the year is out.

The Ohio Fair Apportionment Committee, a group which opposes the reapportionment proposal on the May 4 primary ballot, says it is preparing an alternate plan, and expects to put it before the voters in the November general election.

The proposal before the voters next month was drafted by last year's Republican-dominated legislature. Opponents say it gives too much power to an apportionment board and does not meet requirements laid down by the Supreme Court.

This Is Big Week for 3 Religions

VATICAN CITY (AP) — This week is a major one for three of the world's leading religions. The Christians are observing Holy Week. The Jews begin celebration of Passover on Friday. Moslems begin the Feast of the Sacrifice today.

Pope Paul VI led Roman Catholics into Holy Week Sunday, expressing concern for world peace. But he voiced faith that mankind's hope for peace may not be in vain.

The pontiff blessed palms in the Sistine Chapel and celebrated Palm Sunday Mass in Italian before thousands in St. Peter's Basilica. He also spoke to 21,000 Romans and tourists from his apartment window.

"Again today peace fills our feast day and concerns the world which always has such great need for peace and which feels this blessing of peace so menaced," the Pope said.

"Instead, certain situations place us in doubt whether mankind is any longer able to maintain peace. But the feast of today teaches not only that peace is a duty, but that it is possible."

In divided Berlin, the East German Communists opened their wall again today to West Berliners going to visit relatives in East Berlin during Holy Week. A comparative few crossed the wall today. More than 400,000 West Berliners have received passes, but the big crush will not come until next weekend, for the Easter holidays.

East Berliners are not allowed to visit West Berlin. For the first time in several years, the start of the Jewish Passover, which celebrates the escape of the Israelites from Egypt, coincides with Good Friday this year. The Jewish festival extends for seven days after Friday's Passover supper.

The Zionist Federation of Great Britain and Ireland appealed to the Soviet Union Sunday to permit Soviet Jews who have relatives in Israel to emigrate to that country.

In Jerusalem, three of Israel's Moslem leaders appealed to the government of neighboring Arab countries to allow Israeli Moslems to participate in the traditional pilgrimage to Mecca, Medina and Mt. Ararat during the Feast of the Sacrifice.

Arab countries do not recognize Israel and usually do not allow its citizens to travel across their borders. There are about 180,000 Moslems in Israel's population of more than 2 million.

Dazed Indiana Tornado Survivors Still Shaking

LEBANON, Ind. (AP) — I have talked to some of the people who survived the tornadoes that ripped across northern and central Indiana Sunday night and they were still shaking and had a glassy look in their eyes.

In a Lebanon hospital I saw a man with blood streaming down his back. I asked why he didn't sit down.

"Why, there's nothing wrong with me," he said. He turned and found he was cut from the shoulder blade to his belt line.

A boy was standing in the hall wrapped in a blanket. All he had under it was a belt. I suppose it was all the clothing he could find.

There were so many injured that nurses were treating patients in the halls. Cots had been brought in from the National Guard Armory for the worst hurt. The dead were being taken there as the mortuaries filled up. They were being placed on the floor.

I saw a late model Thunderbird which had been picked up by a twister north of Lebanon and tossed 200 yards into a field. It was literally rolled into a ball. The driver was the only one of the four people in the car wearing a seat belt and he was able to walk back to the road. Two were killed and the other was in critical condition.

Civil defense people said 75 to 80 homes were damaged around Lebanon. Many of them are beyond repair. Some just aren't there any more.

One Guardsman at the armory sent word to his wife to send him some cigarettes and some change and said to tell her not to expect him home for a day or two.

An aged woman was found dead in a smashed house in the Elizaville area. About an hour later an electrical cooperative repair crew found a boy in his early teens — probably the dead woman's grandson — lying critically injured near a barn about a hundred yards away.

Ray Wilk, whose house was badly damaged, said, "The house started to shake and tremble. Then all hell broke loose." He said his wife and daughter were in a front room watching television. And although they were thrown clear across the room, nobody in the family was hurt.

TYPICAL SCENE — Here is a typical scene of the destruction wrought by last night's tornado at Routes 104 and 316 where the storm first struck. This garage was blown apart. A car in the building and one parked just outside were heavily damaged by falling debris.

Second Apportioning Issue May Face Voter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans may be asked to vote on a second proposed legislative reapportionment plan before the year is out.

The Ohio Fair Apportionment Committee, a group which opposes the reapportionment proposal on the May 4 primary ballot, says it is preparing an alternate plan, and expects to put it before the voters in the November general election.

The proposal before the voters next month was drafted by last year's Republican-dominated legislature. Opponents say it gives too much power to an apportionment board and does not meet requirements laid down by the Supreme Court.

This Is Big Week for 3 Religions

VATICAN CITY (AP) — This week is a major one for three of the world's leading religions. The Christians are observing Holy Week. The Jews begin celebration of Passover on Friday. Moslems begin the Feast of the Sacrifice today.

Pope Paul VI led Roman Catholics into Holy Week Sunday, expressing concern for world peace. But he voiced faith that mankind's hope for peace may not be in vain.

The pontiff blessed palms in the Sistine Chapel and celebrated Palm Sunday Mass in Italian before thousands in St. Peter's Basilica. He also spoke to 21,000 Romans and tourists from his apartment window.

"Again today peace fills our feast day and concerns the world which always has such great need for peace and which feels this blessing of peace so menaced," the Pope said.

"Instead, certain situations place us in doubt whether mankind is any longer able to maintain peace. But the feast of today teaches not only that peace is a duty, but that it is possible."

In divided Berlin, the East German Communists opened their wall again today to West Berliners going to visit relatives in East Berlin during Holy Week. A comparative few crossed the wall today. More than 400,000 West Berliners have received passes, but the big crush will not come until next weekend, for the Easter holidays.

East Berliners are not allowed to visit West Berlin. For the first time in several years, the start of the Jewish

Passover, which celebrates the escape of the Israelites from Egypt, coincides with Good Friday this year. The Jewish festival extends for seven days after Friday's Passover supper. The Zionist Federation of Great Britain and Ireland appealed to the Soviet Union Sunday to permit Soviet Jews who have relatives in Israel to emigrate to that country.

In Jerusalem, three of Israel's Moslem leaders appealed to the government of neighboring Arab countries to allow Israeli Moslems to participate in the traditional pilgrimage to Mecca, Medina and Mt. Ararat during the Feast of the Sacrifice.

Arab countries do not recognize Israel and usually do not allow its citizens to travel across their borders. There are about 180,000 Moslems in Israel's population of more than 2 million.

Dazed Indiana Tornado Survivors Still Shaking

LEBANON, Ind., (AP) — I have talked to some of the people who survived the tornadoes that ripped across northern and central Indiana Sunday night and they were still shaking and had a glassy look in their eyes. In a Lebanon hospital I saw a man with blood streaming down his back. I asked why he didn't sit down.

"Why, there's nothing wrong with me," he said. He turned and found he was cut from the shoulder blade to his belt line.

A boy was standing in the hall wrapped in a blanket. All he had under it was a belt. I suppose it was all the clothing he could find.

There were so many injured that nurses were treating patients in the halls. Cots had been brought in from the National Guard Armory for the worst hurt. The dead were being taken there as the mortuaries filled up. They were being placed on the floor.

I saw a late model Thunderbird which had been picked up by a twister north of Lebanon and tossed 200 yards into a field. It was literally rolled into a ball. The driver was the only one of the four people in the car wearing a seat belt and he was able to walk back to the road. Two were killed and the other was in critical condition.

Civil defense people said 75 to 80 homes were damaged around Lebanon. Many of them are beyond repair. Some just aren't there any more.

One Guardsman at the armory sent word to his wife to send him some cigarettes and some change and said to tell her not to expect him home for a day or two.

An aged woman was found dead in a smashed house in the Elizaville area. About an hour later an electrical cooperative repair crew found a boy in his early teens — probably the dead woman's grandson—lying critically injured near a barn about a hundred yards away.

Ray Wilk, whose house was badly damaged, said, "The house started to shake and tremble. Then all hell broke loose." He said his wife and daughter were in a front room watching television. And although they were thrown clear across the room, nobody in the family was hurt.
